Allies Taking Huge Toll Of Axis Planes In Attacks

Seven Huge Nazi Transports Shot Down By Allies

Flying Forts Also Shoot Down 14 Other Axis Planes During Day

AIRFIELD NORTH OF ROME IS BLASTED

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 21.—Seven huge Nazi ME-323 transport planes with a capacity for 100 troops each and 14 Axis fighters were shot out of the air as American Flying Fortresses struck heavy new blows against the Italian mainland and other Allied bombers hit the Mediterranean islands of Sardinia and Pantelleria, Allied headquarters announced today.

Hit Airfield North of Rome

The flying forts swept in upon the Italian mainland almost 100 miles north of Rome to blast the airfield at Grosseto.

The relentless wave of Allied assaults against Sardinia was maintained by British Wellington bombers which blasted an airfield on Wednesday night and American bombers which following through with daylight bombardments.

B-25 Mitchells and B-26 Mrauder bombers, flying with an escort of P-38 Lightning Fighters, caused devastating fires at the Sardinian airdromes and large number of enemy planes were destroyed on the ground.

Bomb Airfields

Combined squadrons of Lightnings and P-40 Warhawks slashed anew at the docks in Pantelleria harbor. These craft also participated in separate blows against communications lines on Sardinia and hit the Sardinian airfield at Milio.

Grounded aircraft and a hangar at Milio were left burning.

Only one Allied plane was lost in all the operations carried out by the strategic air force.

According to orders from the OPA at Washington, the ban on "pleasure driving" is again in effect in this district. Most A card holders can't seem to realize that the ban was ever lifted for them. Six quarts of gasoline a week dodn't allow for any extensive trips or pleasure driving excursions.

War-time has occasioned a lot of changes in the commencement time periods in this district, especially for colleges. At Westminster the annual graduation will take place tomorrow, while in peace time years the date was not until early in June. Likewise, the May Day ceremonies are combined with the graduation program tomorrow.

Men are still hanging on to wearing their felt hats doubtless not taking any chances with this April weather in May. Pa News has only seen two men as yet who have ventured forth with a straw hat, one on Thursday, and one on a nice day in April. May 15 is generally opening day for straw hat wearing.

Most Old Timers would have a difficult time in recalling a spring as backward as the present one. Starting on April 12, it has rained or snowed to some extent every day but six out of the 39 days during this period. No records have been established for excessive precipitation in this time, but there have been mighty few days that have not been dark and cloudy, when it hasn't been raining. In spite of the excessive rainfall, farmers have been able to get some things in.

Report 113 Axis Planes Destroyed Within Few Hours

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 21 — The terrific Allied aerial offensive against the enemy's Mediterranean outposts and Italy slipped into high gear today with an official announcement that 113 enemy planes have been destroyed in the last few hours.

The fliers of the strategic air force also blasted an important dam in Central Sardinia, bringing to the enemy's island outpost the same type aerial warfare which the RAF unloosed with devastating results against Germany earlier this week.

(In London, Reuter's News Agency said the dam was three miles west of Sassari, indicating that that town may be endangered by the bombardment.)

Included was an entire fleet of

MAIN STRENGTH OF U. S. FORCES IN PACIFIC AREA

So Declares President In Conference At Washington Today

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Roosevelt today said that the main strength of American military and naval forces outside the United States are now concentrated in the Pacific.

Confirming Prime Minister Winston Churchill's statement to congress Wednesday that America was maintaining chief responsibility for the war in the Pacific while Great Britain was doing likewise in the Atlantic, the president said it is true that a majority of America's armed forces abroad are stationed in the Pacific area of operation.

The president added that the American air forces in the Pacific were almost equally as large as those in the European theater of war.

President Roosevelt, in response to questions at his news conference concerning the progress of the strategy talks with Churchill, declared that so far most of the work has been done by the combined staffs of American and British military and naval leaders.

The chief executive added that he and Churchill expect to get some preliminary recommendations from the combined staffs probably in time for a general meeting tonight.

No decision was reached in the election held by the National Labor Relation board in the Shenango Pottery on Thursday, May 20, and the result is a stalemate. The vote as announced by the N.L.R.B. today follows:

Congress of Industrial Organizations, 643.

None, 597.

No majority was achieved by either of the three unions and the election settles nothing.

It is understood another election will be ordered some time in the future but no announcement was forthcoming today as to when it will be. The election opened at 5:30 Thursday morning and lasted until midnight, with four representatives of the National Labor Relations board handling it.

VICTORY SHIPS BEING BUILT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 21—President Roosevelt disclosed today that the U. S. is shifting from the construction of Liberty cargo ships to new type Victory ships—more powerfully engined and swifter vessels—in the drive to win the war of shipping.

The Victory ships, the president explained at his news conference, will be useful in the post-war world after the fighting ceases because they are more durable than their predecessors.

Extend Time Week On G, H and J Blue Ration Food Stamps

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 21-The OPA today extended for one week the time during which blue stamps G, H, and J may be used to buy canned goods in order to relieve retailers of an end-of-the-month buying rush.

Instead of expiring on May 31 as previously announced, blue stamps G, H, and J will be good through June 7, the OPA said.

At the same time the price administration agency announced that the next three sets of blue stamps, K, L, and M—totaling 48 points, will become valid next Monday and, instead of expiring at the end of June, will continue good through July 7.

Officials said that blue stamps G H, and J, as well as K, L, and M stamps, all will be valid during a two-week "overlap" period from May 24 through June 7 as result of today's action.

"Change in the expiration date of processed food stamps should make marketing easier for both consumers and retailers and should avoid the congestion that prevailed in many retail stores throughout the country at the end of April," the OPA explained.

"End of the month shopping would have been particularly difficult at the end of May, since not only meat stamps, but sugar and coffee stamps as well, will expire on May 30 and May 31, respectively."

DISPOSITION OF AXIS PRISONERS POSES PROBLEM

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 21. — The disposition of 267,000 Axis prisoners captured in Tunisia presented the Allies today with a major problem in logistics.

Secretary of War Stimson revealed that the United Nations, in addition to preparing large-scale military operations, are faced with the immediate problem of obtaining scores of ships, huge stores of food and countless personal necessities for a mounting bag of German and Italian prisoners taken in Tunisia.

Although the United States plans to bring thousands of Axis forces to this country for farm labor and similar non-war work, some quarters expressed the belief that large numbers of captives may be left in North African stockades under Allied military supervision until the present critical shipping situation improves.

Heavy Counter Assault Near Novorossisk Crushed By Red Forces

TROOP BARGES REPORTED SUNK

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, May 21—A heavy Nazi counter-assault northeast of the Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk was crushed today by Red army infantry which charged headlong into the attacking force to inflict heavy casualties on the Germans.

The Nazis sent into battle four regiments of infantry totalling an estimated 12,000 men after preparing the way for the assault with heavy artillery and trench mortar fire.

Smash Back Assault

Fierce counter-fire was hurled at the Germans by Soviet forces which smashed back in strength to repulse the assault. In addition to the large toll of casualties inflicted the Russian troops captured many Nazis.

In further artillery exchanges in the Kuban Valley battle area Soviet guns destroyed 12 German blockhouses and pillboxes and silenced several Nazi artillery and mortar batteries. Four German aircraft were shot down.

YANKS IN BOMB RAID ON BURMA

(International News Service)

NEW DELHI, May 21.—Blasting of Japanese-held targets with 125 tons of bombs by American heavy bombers operating in the Irrawaddy river area in Burma was disclosed in an American communique today. Fires were started among oil installations.

Other American planes started seven fires in raids on Magwe rail installations, set oil wells ablaze in the Padakan district and bombed Monya and Thavamyo.

Mitchell medium bombers, in a mass attack, blanketed the Lanywa workshops between Chauk and Ynagyat with a pattern of bombs. Another flight of Mitchells destroyed workshops at Singu, 25 miles northwest of Guak.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jameson McCreery Gives Parents' Home To Jameson Hospital

Announcement was made today of the gift of the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Jameson, at the corner of North Jefferson street and Lincoln avenue, to the Jameson Memorial hospital for use as an additional home for nurses. The gift was announced by Mrs. Elizabeth Jameson McCreery, daughter of the late philanthropists.

For some time the nurses' home adjoining the Jameson Memorial hospital has been inadequate to accommodate the number of nurses in the hospital. The Jameson home will provide sufficient rooms to take care of those unable to be quartered in the nurses' home.

The hospital itself was the gift of the late David Jameson to the citizens of New Castle. The nurses' home was the gift of the late Mrs. Jameson and her daughter.

Berlin Is Again Hit By Bombers In Night Attack

British Planes Over Berlin For Second Straight Night Says London

MANY TARGETS IN EUROPE ARE BOMBED

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, May 21—Berlin was hit for the second straight night by bombs from British mosquito planes as aircraft of the bomber, fighter and coastal commands carried out widespread assaults against the Reich and occupied territories, the air ministry announced today.

Other speedy Mosquito planes participating the ninth consecutive night of operations against the continent bombed railway targets in the vicinity of the port of Bremen.

Mines Are Laid

Mines were laid in enemy waters by other aircraft of the bomber command while Intruder planes of the fighter command ranged over northern France and northwestern Germany to shoot up locomotives and barges.

The round of continued night assaults was begun by Mosquitoes which in offensive patrols shortly before dark bombed the railway yards at Tergnier in north-central France.

"After dark," said the communique, "aircraft of the bomber command laid mines in enemy waters.

"Mosquitoes again dropped bombs on Berlin."

It was the 66th assault of the war on the German capital.

Big Jap Base Heavily Bombed

Eighteen Tons Of Bombs Dropped On Rabaul By Allied Fliers

JAPS ATTEMPT FOUR NEW GUINEA RAIDS

By LEE VAN ATTA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 21—Allied heavy bombers braved severe anti-aircraft fire and searchlights to hurl down 18 tons of demolition and incendiary bombs on an airport at the big Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Other bombers attacked a second enemy airport in New Britain and Jap installations at two New Guinea points.

Four Jap Raids

The Nips responded with four air raids on Allied territory in New Guinea. Aside from destruction of a small Allied lugger and slight damage to another, the Jap raids were largely ineffective.

The Vunakanau airdrome at Rabaul was blasted by Flying Fortresses and Liberators in a pre-dawn raid. Besides starting many fires near the runway and dispersal areas, indicating Jap planes on the ground were set afire, the Allied bombers hit back at the Nip defenses. They silenced one gun battery and destroyed at least one searchlight.

Despite the ferocity of the Jap gunfire, all the Allied planes returned to their bases.

The enemy airdrome at Gasmata, also in new Britain, rocked with explosions which set many fires in dispersal and dump areas in the course of three attacks by Allied heavy bombers.

Italy May Be Knocked Out Of War This Summer

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Predictions were being made in diplomatic circles in Washington today that Italy will be knocked out of effective participation in the war within the next three or four months.

A collapse of the Italian war effort within that time is foreseen as a result of the terrific aerial bombardment to which Italy is expected to be subjected during coming weeks.

Whether Italy will be able to sue for peace or will have to be occupied by the Allied armies is an uncertain question in the minds of American officials.

Official and diplomatic Washington is convinced that the Italian people would like to withdraw from the war now, but there is considerable doubt whether Premier Benito Mussolini's Fascists or Germany will acquiesce to the unconditional surrender of the country in advance of an Allied occupation.

It is believed that Mussolini himself would gladly take Italy out of the war now if he could make a deal with the Allies and get rid of the Germans.

Since American officials assert the first possibility is definitely ruled out, and the second is unlikely, it is thought Il Duce will fight on until he is overthrown at home or forced to flee from Italy.

Kiska Looms As Next Target In Aleutians

U. S. Offensive To Sweep Japs From Aleutians To Continue

JAP TROOPS ON ATTU ARE TRAPPED

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 21 — As American forces moved in for the killing blow against Japanese remnants on Attu, the enemy-held island of Kiska today loomed as the next target in the United States offensive to sweep the invaders from the Aleutians.

Naval officers declined to speculate on the next possible American move in the North Pacific, but it was evident that U. S. successes on Attu already have placed the Jap garrison on Kiska in a precarious position.

Once Attu is cleaned up and the estimated 3,000 or more Jap troops there are killed or captured, American forces could invade Kiska or starve the enemy garrison there through a sea and aerial blockade.

Japs On Attu Trapped

What remains of the Jap occupation force on Attu is trapped on a small neck of land not more than five miles square in the vicinity of Chicagof Harbor.

American forces already are in possession of the incomplete enemy airfield and all installations and much booty in the vicinity of Holtz Bay, which is only a short distance from Chicagof.

According to war analysts, a brief period of clear weather would end the Attu battle because the full force of American sea and air power could be brought to bear against the enemy.

10,000 At Kiska

Estimates placed the Japanese garrison on Kiska at 10,000 troops, who have had nearly a year in which to build fortifications. Kiska is much larger than Attu.

The importance of Kiska as a base to the Japanese has been on the wane since American forces occupied the nearby island of Amchi-

WOMAN GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Verdict Returned Against Mrs. Randle After Trial At Annapolis

(International News Service)

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 21.—Mrs Helen Aileen Randle, pretty 31-year-old Maryland society woman, today was held without bond in the county jail awaiting sentencing next Tuesday for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a 17-year-old neighbor, Allen Willey, last January.

Under Maryland law, manslaughter is punishable by a penitentiary term of from one to 10 years. The judge, however, is empowered to suspend sentence and impose a minimum fine of $1,000.

Mrs. Randle, wife of Ulmo S. Randle, prominent horse fancier, broke down and wept when the jury of 12 men returned the verdict of guilty last night after deliberating for about two hours.

Attorneys for Mrs. Randle did not immediately file an appeal.

The shooting, she said, came after a day-long domestic quarrel between her husband and herself.

Mrs. Randle said that Willey had insulted her and she left the room, returning with the rifle. Her husband held her, she continued, and in the struggle the gun was discharged. She said she had held it loosely in her hand and asserted that she had never brought it to her shoulder.

U-Boat Crew Left Prisoner On Sinking Sub

(International News Service)

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 21.—How a U-boat crew left a prisoner aboard their sinking submarine, like a rat in a trap, was disclosed today.

The prisoner was the captain of a Greek freighter sunk this month by the U-boat in the South Atlantic, 400 miles off the Island of Fernando Noronha. Landing of 20 survivors of the Greek ship was revealed yesterday. Fifty-three crew members are missing.

The U-boat captain, now himself a prisoner with all his crew, coldly admitted that he left the Greek captain trapped aboard the submarine when it was sunk by Allied destroyers.

He declared he and his crew still do not believe the North African campaign is over. He said latest reports received by the submarine told of crushing Axis victories in Tunisia.

Midwest Flood Damage Heavy

New Dangers Appear In Some Areas In Worst Flood Of Generation

ST. CHARLES, MO., FACES THREAT

(International News Service)

The flood menace that gripped lowland areas of eight midwest states today showed some signs of abating, but new danger appeared along the Mississippi river as crests of the swollen rivers moved southward.

The new peril arose at St. Charles, Mo., where levees protecting the town of 10,000 population weakened, threatening new destruction throughout the area.

As the flood, termed the most destructive of a generation, rolled southward leaving 10 dead and untold property damage in its wake, it was estimated that 82,000 persons were driven from their inundated homes and at least 3,000,000 acres of midwest farmland were under water.

Fears On Food Production

With much of the midwest's rich farmland, the bread basket of the nation, under water, fears were expressed as to the American farmers' ability to meet the wartime tempo of increased food production.

The flood appeared to be subsiding in Indiana, the hardest hit of the eight midwest states, but states along the lower Mississippi valley braced to bear the shock of rising crests.

At St. Charles, where the Illinois and Missouri rivers poured their swollen waters into the Mississippi and at Cairo, Ill., where the Ohio and Wabash rivers join the Mississippi, residents worked feverishly to hold back the flood.

There was little change in the situation in the other midwest states, Illinois, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahome, Ohio and Michigan where the flood showed signs of subsiding.

Commander Of Japanese Fleet Killed In Action

Tokyo Reports Admiral Yamanoto Killed While Aboard Warplane

BOASTED HE WOULD DICTATE PEACE TERMS

Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 21-Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto commander-in-chief of the combined Japanese fleet and the man who had boasted that some day he would dictate the terms of peace in the White House at Washington, has been killed in action, the Tokyo radio announced today.

Yamamoto's death during April "while engaged in combat with the enemy" aboard a warplane was disclosed in an imperial Japanese headquarters communique.

The communique, broadcast domestically by the Tokyo radio, was recorded in the United States by the Federal Communications commission. The admiral died "during his direction of operations," the official Nipponese announcement said.

Posthumous Award

Radio Tokyo said that Emperor Hirohito has decided to award posthumously to Yamamoto the Order of the Golden Vulture and title of grand admiral. It was added that he will be granted a state funeral.

Yamamoto had boasted almost a year before the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor that he looked forward to dictating the peace in event of a war between Japan and the United States.

In a letter written on Jan. 24, 1941, Yamamoto said:

"I am looking forward to dictating peace to the United States in the White House at Washington."

Admiral Mineichi Koga, former commander of Japanese fleet units in Chinese waters, has been appointed successor to Yamamoto and is "already in command," it was said.

Listeners to the broadcast said the Tokyo announcer appeared overcome with the import of the news he had to impart.

Text of the communique said:

Wildcat Coal Strikes In State

Expect 6,000 Miners To Return To Work Today In Three States

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 21.—Wildcat strikers in a dozen soft coal mines of western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio are expected to return to work today, ending an unauthorized work stoppage by more than 6,000 miners.

James Marks, United Mine Workers union leader in central Pennsylvania, the district where most of the work stoppages occurred, was asked by U. S. government officials to "get the men back to work."

Marks, whose headquarters are in Clearfield, predicted that the miners would be back to work by Monday. He added:

"The miners are pretty sore. They feel an injustice has been done them. But it has been the policy of the United Mine Workers to continue mines in operation during a contract extension and this policy will be followed."

The request to Marks was dispatched by Don Gingery, regional solid fuels administrator under Harold Ickes, "boss" of the U. S. coal mining industry now that the government has taken charge of the collieries.

command attacked railway transport targets in France and northwestern Germany," the communique continued.

"One aircraft of the fighter command is missing.

"Coastal command Beaufighters destroyed enemy aircraft over the Bay of Biscay yesterday afternoon."

Shortly before midnight, it was announced, there was a slight activity by Nazi planes over the coastal district of southeast England but no bombs were dropped. London itself had a short-lived alert.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio meanwhile disclosed that Bordeaux has been without water and gas for four days as a result of allied bombardments.

Factory Fired

The pilot of one Mosquito bomber, the aid ministry said, set fire to a factory, stopped a train and blasted a freight yard near Bremen with cannon fire.

A second Mosquito hit seven trains and set fire to a locomotive while another Mosquito damaged four locomotives and three searchlight batteries in the same area.

Berlin was reported to have undergone a three-hour alert while the raids were in progress.

London air raid sirens sounded the British capital's 642nd alarm of the war at midnight but the all-clear signal was given almost immediately and no incidents were reported.

Artillery Bombardment

The Red army increased its artillery bombardments against German lines in the Leningrad area on the northwest front while dive-bombers of the Soviet air force hammered repeatedly at Nazi positions.

The noon communique of the Soviet high command said that combined artillery and dive-bomber action had silenced several German artillery batteries. Two German infantry companies were dispersed and partly annihilated.

Soviet guerrillas in three days of fighting with a German punitive expedition around Leningrad wiped out 200 of the enemy, it was said.

West of Moscow on the central front another force of 200 Germans was annihiliated and Soviet artillery destroyed six blockhouses and other positions.

Down at the lower end of the southern front west of Rostov there was continued artillery duelling.

In the Donets Basin area south of Kharkov the Germans tried to recapture a eight near Izyum but lost 300 men who were slain when the Russians counter-attacked.

BIG JAP BASE HEAVILY BOMBED

The biggest raid on Allied outposts by Japanese planes took place at Cape Ward Hunt, New Guinea, where 12 Nip planes strafed the harbor area and managed to sink a lugger and slightly damage another. Allied casualties were slight.

Only minor damage was done in three other small Jap raids in New Guinea. Four enemy planes fired a small fuel dump when they dropped 10 bombs in the Milne Bay area. Single planes twice raided Dobodura under cover of darkness, with minor results. Three Nip planes raiding Port Moresby after dark dropped six bombs harmlessly in the bush.

There has been a lull in the aerial offensive against Kiska due to bad weather during the past 10 days, but it must be recalled that during April the Japs there were raided 145 times.

When the Japs finally are crushed on Attu, American observation from that island should check any attempt by the enemy either to reinforce or evacuate its force from Kiska.

At any rate, the first anniversary of Japan's initial invasion of American soil should see the end of Japanese occupation in the Aleutians. The Japs took Attu and Kiska early in June last year.

COMMENCEMENT ON SATURDAY

centration of activities under the college's war-time accelerated program, Westminster will do without its usual commencement week-end program and hold all activities in one day. Features of the day's program will be the annual Alumni Day, the crowning of May Queen Ruth Galbreath, and the commencement exercises.

Preceding the major events, an all-college and alumni party will be held in the school gymnasium tonight. A number of reunion classes are also preparing to meet this evening to avoid conflict with tomorrow's program.

Program For Day

A full program of activities is scheduled for all day Saturday. Beginning at 10 a. m., the college Board of Trustees will meet to pass on degrees recommended by the faculty. Promptly at 12 o'clock noon, there will be the annual alumni luncheon and meeting in the basement of the United Presbyterian church. Several hundred alumni are expected to return for the day's activities.

One change has been made in the day's program. The coronation of the May Queen, usually held on the South Terrace in the shadow of Old Main tower, will take place on the court of Ferguson hall, women's dormitory. The transfer was made necessary because lack of time between the coronation and commencement program would not be sufficient to permit the removal of the May Day settings platform for the commencement exercises. The coronation is set for 2 o'clock when pretty Ruth Galbreath, daughter of President and Mrs. Robert F. Galbreath, will receive her crown.

At 2:45, the Westminster band under the direction of Prof. Donald O. Cameron, Conservatory Head will give a concert on the Terrace.

Judge Braham Speaker

Approximately 60 students expect to receive diplomas at graduation exercises scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock. Judge W. Walter Braham, of New Castle, will deliver the principal address to the members of the class. Judge Braham is a Westminster graduate with the class of 1915 and also is a member of the college's board of trustees.

Dr. Robert F. Galbreath will confer honorary degrees on three men, Rev. Charles W. Fulton, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, North Side, Pittsburgh, will receive the Doctor of Divinity degree; Alexander Booth, principal of the Washington Vocational high school, Pittsburgh, the degree Doctor of Pedagogy, and Gordon Balch Nevin, internationally-known organist and composer, the Doctor of Music degree.

Twelve Westminster classes, 1873, 1878, 1883, 1888, 1983 (50-year class), 1908, 1913, 1918, 1923, 1928, 1933, and 1938, in addition to the class of 1942, plan to hold reunions either tonight or tomorrow.

COMMANDER OF JAPANESE FLEET KILLED IN ACTION

egy on the front line in April of this year, engaged in combat with the enemy and met gallant death on a warplane.

"As successor, Admiral Mineichi Koga has been appointed and is already taking command as commander of the combined fleet."

There was no immediate hint as to the locality in which Yamamoto was killed.

In an English language broadcast of the announcement the Tokyo radio said that Yamamoto died "on the foremost front." No specific date in April was mentioned and details of the fatal air battle were withheld.

Subsequently the Tokyo station said that the admiral met his "gallant death on the very front lines of the south."

Highest Ranking Officer To Die

The Japanese admiral, 59 years old, was the highest ranking officer of any of the world belligerents to meet death in combat in this war. He was born at Nagaoka City, Japan, April 4, 1884.

A former instructor at the naval academy he was in 1925 appointed naval attache to Washington and was a delegate to the London naval conference in 1929.

Admiral Yamamoto was answerable only to the chief of the naval staff in Tokyo on his actions as commander of the first and second battle fleets.

A later Tokyo broadcast of a Domei news agency dispatch said that after Admiral Koga was promoted, Admiral Soyemu Yoda, commandant of the Yokosuka Naval Station, was named to succeed him.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(International News Service Foreign Editor)

One of the leading figures in the Axis tapestry of aggression and double-dealing was removed from the international picture today with disclosure by Tokyo that Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, commander-in-chief of the combined Japanese fleet, has been killed in action.

Yamamoto was high on the list of Democracy's public enemies. He is the man who plotted and carried out the infamous attack on Pearl Harbor. He also is the braggart who said he would live to dictate peace terms to the United States from the White House at Washington.

Sneak attacks were second nature to this slant-eyed navy man. He was a captain in the Imperial Japanese navy under the late Admiral Count Heihachiro Togo, who in 1904 ambushed the Russian fleet at Port Arthur and later annihilated it in the famous battle of the Japan Sea.

Yamamoto put into practice the lessons he learned from Togo. The Japanese onslaught at Port Arthur had its place in Tokyo's history books as one of the most masterful undertakings of all time. Yamamoto went a step farther, with modern equipment, at Pearl Harbor.

Just where Yamamoto met his death was not revealed by Tokyo. The radio announcer said he was killed "on the foremost front" which would indicate the southwest Pacific theater and mean, by the same token, that one of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen was the heroic victor.

If there is such a thing as poetic justice, it was found here in the fact that Yamamoto was killed aboard an airplane instead of a naval vessel. While geared to navy tradition and raised in the gospel of naval supremacy, Yamamoto was unable to depend upon his fleet for the first sneak victories at Pearl Harbor and the Philippines and depended instead upon aircraft. He met his own death in the skies.

Yamamoto was one of the coterie of Japanese war lords who were kept quietly in the background during the years when Japan fabricated a facade of peaceful, civil government while preparing for a war against the world. On the infrequent ocacsions when he came into the public limelight he made no secret of his ambitions—for himself and for Japan, and was utterly frank in predicting that by war alone could the question of Pacific dominance be settled.

When the mask was torn off and the government of Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo revealed for what it really was, Yamamoto emerged as a key figure. He was given full credit for development of Japan's navy and fleet air arm and Tokyo newspapers gloated over the success he had achieved in keeping Japan's mammoth navy building a secret from the world.

UNENDING SHOCKS

TAKING their place alongside the Royal Air Force in full scale attacks day after day, American flyers now are bringing to bear intensified pressure on Axis Europe marked by disruption of facilities and civilian panic. From their side of the far-flung lines the Russians are exerting their weight in an expanding manifestation of the world's newest method of bringing about the collapse of an enemy.

Hitler's cunning preparation for this war is the target of the thickening clouds of Allied bombers. He knew he could expect sea blockade. He built up stockpiles of imported natural raw materials and followed this by construction of vast plants for the manufacture of synthetic substitutes. These, he hoped, would suffice until he could get conquered territory into production.

The stockpiles of natural raw materials from outside Europe were exhausted long ago. Many of the synthetic industries have been turned into a shambles by Allied bombing. And save for food, the destruction of which by air attack is difficult, the conquered territories of the reich are proving a disappointment. The industries of Italy and France are as badly shattered as those of Germany. Czechoslovakia is coming within reach of the Allied air arm, as all occupied areas will soon.

Hitler's offensive program for this year is being seriously disrupted and he can look to the future only with an increasing degree of misgiving. What is happening to interior Europe today will grow in intensity as a stream of new equipment is fed to Allied air attack bases that now surround Europe. From England, North Africa, Russia and soon from other points will come the unending shocks that sap the energy of the aggressors.

TRIALS OF NEUTRALITY

Although separated by an ocean from the scene of hostilities, the United States has fresh memories of the delicate situation of a nation clinging to neutrality when all Europe is embattled. What, then, are the difficulties with which the six European nations still nominally neutral are beset? They are Ireland, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey.

Each case differs from the others. Ireland is obviously influenced by strong anti-British sentiment. Even though her attitude has proved a tragic handicap to Allied defense efforts against the U-boats, England has confined herself to efforts of persuasion. Only an invasion attempt by Germany could change Ireland's present status.

Portugal is sympathetic to the Allies because of her long friendship with Great Britain, but she has been circumspect in maintaining a real neutrality. So far, at least, her neutrality has been a useful thing for both the United Nations and the Axis, for the Port of Lisbon has been employed in common by both groups of belligerents. But there is little doubt that if Hitler decided on a desperate drive into the Iberian peninsula, he would not hesitate to violate Portugal's neutrality without notice.

There is always the possibility of such an attempt by Hitler, because Spain is the least neutral of the neutral countries. Should the time ever come when Spain can gain something by aiding Germany, Franco will make the plunge. Two deterrents have been internal conditions following the civil war and fear of an eventual United Nations victory.

Of all the neutral nations, Switzerland is in the most precarious situation. In the early stages of the war, and even in the Hitlerite years preceding it, Switzerland served as a sort of clearing house for refugees seeking to escape persecution, but when France fell she found herself completely surrounded by Axis-controlled territory.

Hitler has served several warnings on Switzerland, but he has yet to risk invasion of the naturally fortified country defended by a small but well-trained army.

Turkey has played an opportunistic game. For a long time Ankara was the scene of diplomatic dueling between Franz von Papen and the British ambassador to Turkey. Advantage shifted as the tides of war shifted. Now that there is a definite turn in Allied fortunes, Turkey shows signs of stringing along with the Allied nations.

Turkey is important because of her geographical location at the eastern end of the Mediterranean and her control of the Dardanelles. In analyzing her attitude toward the pact with Great Britain, it must be kept in mind that in the last war Turkey was an ally of Germany and was attacked by Britain with tragic consequences for the latter.

As Spain is neutral "in favor of the Axis, so Sweden is neutral "on the side of the Allies." Almost surrounded by German-controlled land and water, she is trying definitely to preserve her status, but she is not making the mistake of being unprepared. Her army and air force are ready at a moment's notice to combat an attack, and she would not be a negligible adversary. Although Sweden still trades with Germany in vital war materiel, she is growing more critical of Hitler.

At one time there was a rumor that Norwegians were being transported across Sweden for compulsory labor in Germany. If that was ever true, the practice was soon ended. Following public indignation meetings, the Swedes condemned the movement of Nazi officers and soldiers across Swedish territory on the way to or from vacations in the reich. Recently Stockholm made sharp protests to Berlin against the shelling of one of her submarines by a German armed merchantman. Sweden also offers a haven for Norwegians who manage to cross the border.

If the advantage which the United Nations now hold over the Axis is maintained, it is probable that none of these six neutral nations will change its status of its own accord, with the possible exception of Turkey, which may swing to the Allies as the war draws to a close. Hitler might violate the neutrality of any one of them in a desperate last moment effort to wrest victory from defeat.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FIRM AND KINDLY MOTHER BEST

What the United States of America needs now, if our heroes are to return after victory to a community fit to honor their sacrifices, are parents with spines, to replace the millions of mothers who now act like jelly fishes.

Occasionally, at a gathering of parents somewhere in the United States, or through a letter from some reader, I learn of a rare mother who really has a back bone, who puts the physical and moral welfare of her children and the citizenship of her community first, and guides her growing child accordingly.

Suppose you are such a mother, who, having begun when your child began to move about under his own steam, trained him effectively in the meaning of NO, in an atmosphere of family love and understanding, and were able to do so with a minimum of pain and annoyance to him. (My bulletin, "How to teach tot meaning of NO," may be had without cost, by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.)

Child Is Self-Reliant

Suppose you at the same time cultivated self-reliance and responsibility in your child so that you have been able, gradually, to reduce outward controls, but never too fast for his moral and physical safety. Suppose your child is now twelve years old, and that from the time he first went out of doors to play, he always has brought himself into the house as soon as the street lights appeared, even though all his playmates have roamed about as they pleased long after dark. But the chances are that some of the parents of your child's playmates are already imitating you. Indeed, some of their children may often be in your home after dark with your child, having wholesome good times there.

Even so, your child may have complained at times over your restrictions. Yet you did not argue with him. You merely said once, "It is none of my business what other parents do. This is our way," and you had the character to make your word good.

Suppose your child were fourteen and that you did not wish him or her to go out at night with one of the opposite sex unaccompanied by an adult. You would, I hope, let him be with companions of the opposite sex often at your home or in another approved place reasonably often, preferably with lots of other boys and girls together, but with adults present, not to watch them but to provide a safe atmosphere for them.

Should your boy of 12 or 13 want to go to a movie with a girl at night, readily go with him then. You might not insist they sit with you. In case you drive, several young couples might well go with you, with their parents' approval. Most of all, make your home a place where lots of boys and girls of any ages gather for good times. Be there yourself then.

Let me suggest that you hold to such protective measures until your boy is at least sixteen and your daughter fifteen, certainly for the duration. If you could enlist the cooperation of a number of other mothers, it might not be long before you would have helped establish a wholesome standard for your community.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Will it harm a child after entering school to have learned at play before entering school to recognize the letters of the alphabet?

A. Of course not; it will help him. Don't let any one fool you on that point. It wouldn't even harm the first and second grade child, in his spelling, to "know his letters".

Q. What is a wise understanding with grandparents when living with young parents or vice-versa?

A. That they need take no responsibility for the children whatsoever unless requested to do so.

ABOUT WIVES

How very brave must women be
For some have married fools like me!
And wives must all be very brave
To stay by men who cannot save;
Who cannot hang their coats on hooks,
Who spend their substance buying books;
Who coming from the muddy street
Forget to stop and wipe their feet.
Yet women have, and will again,
Become the wives of paper men.

And brave are they who spend their lives
As celebrated doctors' wives;
Condemned to sit at home alone
And answer calls upon the phone;
To cook their husbands' favorite meat
They may not get back home to eat;
To visit friends at cards to play
And have their husbands called away.
Yet grim as seems the doctor's life
I don't know one without a wife.

But braver still are those who share
The burdens ministers must bear.
The wives of parsons one and all
Must gracious be when members call;
Must go to meetings near and far;
Make garments for the church bazaar
And think as true companions should
Their husbands' every sermon good.
Yet notwithstanding such a life
There always is "the parson's wife!"

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:13. Sun rises tomorrow 5:40.

It is claimed that there is nothing a soldier likes better than a letter from home. And there is nothing people like better than a letter from their soldiers. Many soldiers do not write many letters because they do not have the time. They do not work five day weeks and eight hour days.

We have noticed that many well informed people are also often wrong.

We don't blame kings in the countries of the dictators for going to some other places for the duration.

Newspaper men usually plead guilty when charged with making mistakes because they haven't time to argue.

So far no one has suggested a penalty fierce enough for the dictators to have to suffer when they are finally stopped. It should be tough.

They say all things work together for good. Maybe so. But gosh how we hate them until we begin to reap the benefits.

Very often the penalty for driving an automobile is worse than going to jail.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Nothing seems to make people so nervous as to be called upon to make public speeches at banquets or meetings and I am being constantly asked how this stage fright may best be cured. I always suggest that the nervous speaker begin his piece with the wittiest anecdote that he can glean from among his acquaintances. As soon as his audience begins to laugh at this, he will regain his composure and the remainder of his remarks will be delivered with ease. One thing to be considered above all else is your ability as a speaker and raconteur. If you get hopelessly tongue-tied and self-conscious when you attempt to make speeches, give up speech making. Some of us are temperamentally unfit for this phase of social life. Unless you are a politician, why subject yourself and listeners to this agony when it is not essential. Leave this task to capable speakers. Eloquence is a gift possessed by comparatively few people. Do not accept public speaking jobs if your flow of words is not easy. Nothing is more boring than being forced to listen to a poor speaker.

Nazis Not Yet Beaten But They Look Wobbly
Reports Made Of Peace Proposals To Russia
Turkish-Nazi Tie-Up Is Unlikely To Happen

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Roosevelt's and British Prime Minister Churchill's repeated warnings that the United Nations have not won the war yet are perfectly understandable. F.D.R. and Winston alike do not want their respective peoples to get the notion that all is over except the shouting, and relax.

If they are anxious to prevent this from happening, however, it would be a bright idea for them to decree some censoring of very persistent news reports indicating that Herr Hitler is developing quite an acute case of cold feet. Of course, that isn't the kind of tidings that an Allied censor would be apt, of his own volition, to hush up. Nevertheless, a country that is fed on a succession of dispatches pretty convincingly indicating that its arch-foes are speedily going on the slide is not likely to take contrary forecasts overly seriously.

It is fairly well authenticated now, among other things, that the Fuehrer has been trying hard of late to conclude a peace bargain with Russian Premier Stalin, which it seems improbable he would have been doing but for an increasingly unfavorable situation on that front.

Italy obviously has flattened out as a Nazi ally. Hints from Rome are to the effect that the rank-and-file of the Italians are ready, on short notice to join the United Nations, if assured of merciful treatment. And, inasmuch as the bulk of them have not been seriously blamed for Mussolini, it is surmised that they will get a kindly offer. President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill probably discussed it in Washington. Italy's secession from the Axis would not be of grave consequence militarily, but the moral effect of it would be formidable.

German-occupied small European countries manifestly are becoming almost daily more rebellious.

France is solidifying anti-Axisly.

The Axis' defeat in North Africa is reported (most of this is partly report but rather substantially verified) to have disorganized Nazism right in Germany. Illustratively, Fuehrer Hitler is said to be in rapid progress of being subordinated to his military command. And it is a fact that he has not peeped very chirpily recently. It is explained that his health has suffered, whatever that may mean.

Not long ago, it will be remembered that Dictator Franco of Spain proposed Madrid's good offices toward the conclusion of a peace agreement between the United Nations and the Axis. The best guess was that Adolf had induced the Spanish Caudillo to attempt it, tentatively.

It sounds reasonable, considering that they were pre-war partners.

Now comes the dope that Rauf Orbay, Turkish ambassador to London, has left for his capital, Ankara, for a wartime conference.

Germany and Turkey were partners in the last war, though not particularly cordial ones. It is less than a doubtful gamble that the Turks are suggesting any closer tie-up at present. It might be, though, that, like Spain, at the other end of the Mediterranean, they are proposing "good offices," at their end of the inland sea.

Incidentally, the Vatican has a representative in Ankara.

Far be it from me to hint that Pope Pius is on any terms with Ankara.

Still, His Holiness seeks peace. The junction of negotiators is noticeable.

SOMEBODY seeks peace. Civilization does. The church does, for religion's sake. The little countries want it, for survival. The no-so-little countries, like Spain and Turkey, want it for future references.

China and India want it, for their race's sake.

Japan's an exception.

It is the one outlaw in the entire aggregation.

I would like to know what the Japs DO want.

And I am an old resident of the archipelago.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
INS Staff Writer

We have a collect rumor from Hot Springs, that the delicatessen conference has eliminated potatoes from its program. Also its menu.

Before the delegates of the united lend-lease nations could figure out a way to borrow our potatoes the spuds were gone—vanished into thin soup.

As a substitute we are offering our radishes to the have-nots.

At least they will provide some variation when we try to collect.

Instead of getting the bird we will get the burp for a change.

Every victory gardener in America is raising radishes against the day when there may not be anything else. A radish eaten at lunch can be tasted again at dinner.

Can you get two meals out of a potato?

A radish is also an aid to politeness. One radish can keep you saying "pardon me" all day.

Thought for the day: Uncle Sam's white market—come and get it!

Strange man. He sneers at heathen who torture themselves, yet spoils his life by brooding over the wrongs he has suffered.

The World and the Mud Puddles

WASHINGTON PLANNERS

The nutritional adviser to the FDA, Dr. Russell M. Wilder, recently suggested that in view of the meat scarcity the dry milk content of bread be increased from three pounds per one hundred pounds of flour to six pounds. He reasons that since people can obtain less meat, they will eat more bread.

Without questioning the nutritional goal, L. V. Burton, editor of Food Industries, attempted to follow through on the suggestion and discovered precisely what its accomplishment would entail. His trip was an interesting journey through the maze of Washington Bureaucracy.

First, to obtain this increased production of milk with which to make the dry milk, the War Manpower Commission must provide enough milkers and the War Production Board must permit enough milking equipment. It seems that on big scale milk production, it requires more than a three-legged stool and a tin pail to equip a dairy hand.

Then the Office of Price Administration must permit the price of milk to go high enough to assure production and distribution. Some agency, it hasn't been determined which one, then must hold back enough cows on the farms to provide the milk. If that hurdle can be cleared, the OPA or the AAA must permit feed prices to go to levels that will permit milk production and the FDA must relax a bit and permit the production of heavy cream.

After that, it must persuade OPA to allow butter prices to be high enough to use the cream for butter making or permit increased production of ice cream—if the sugar can be obtained.

Otherwise, the FDA must persuade the ODT to permit more refrigerated transport to be used to haul the cream to cities. And WPB must permit more separators and pasteurizers to be built, if the steel is available. This is to say nothing of the additional boilers, evaporators and spray drying equipment that will be needed. In fact, the whole inquiry is just started.

Then, if it were possible to clear all these barriers by the time the war is over or the millenneum arrives, who knows whether there are enough cows to increase the milk flow? That, of course, would seem to be the first question requiring an answer, but perhaps Mr. Burton became inoculated with the complicated reverse methods of the Bureaus and placed it last.

Truly, this is a wonderful world in which we live, particularly when we have building after building in Washington filled with twenty-eight-year-old experts and economists, planning everything for us.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A couple in Buenos Aires, Argentina, were fined in criminal court for naming two of their children Zoroaster and Jupiter.

The judge held that parents might not give their children names that would be a handicap to them.

He ordered the names changed but permitted two other children, named Floreal and Oreste to continue as christened, because, he said these names were euphonious.

Maybe the parents deserved a fine.

But if they did, then thousands of others deserve fines as well.

All parents, I believe, want their children to have the best of everything.

If they can't give them wealth or fame, they give them high-sounding names.

I know a bootblack and his wife who named their children Euripedes and Leontine, two fancy names, you will admit.

Everybody calls them Pat and Mike, but to the parents they will always be Euripedes and Leontine although neither of them knows how to pronounce the names.

When I was a tyke my mother put me in a velvet suit with a little Lord Fauntleroy collar. She was very proud of my curls, which grew almost down to my shoulders.

When my father came back from a trip and saw me in that suit, he said "Poor Kid," took the suit off me, grabbed a pair of scissors, cut off my hair and sent me out to play with the other kids.

From that day on I loved my father more than any other person I ever knew, and even now I remember him fondly as the fellow who made a man of me.

Don't spoil your children's lives, mothers and fathers, by making them the characters in your play of dreams.

Remember they have to live their lives just like you did.

Don't try to make mythical heroes of them.

I notice that most of the fellows who are getting the decorations in this war are named Dick and Jim and Ike and Moe.

You've seen those organ-grinder monkeys all dressed up like generals and majors haven't you?

They always look very unhappy—and they are still monkeys!

ANGLO-AMERICAN TEAMWORK AFTER WAR IS NEEDED

Prime Minister Churchill Banking Heavily On Our Cooperation

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill disclosed to members of congress that he is banking heavily upon Anglo-American cooperation in shaping the post-war world.

This was revealed today by members who participated in a question-and-answer session with the prime minister, which lasted for an hour and which was marked by frank inquiries and replies.

Churchill turned a cold shoulder to proposals that the United Nations arrange an early meeting to chart peace nad post-war plans and to map a policy of policing the world after the Axis has been crushed.

In his talk with the senate and house committees dealing with foreign relations, members said, Churchill disclosed no military secrets. His usual reply to questions about the war was to refer to his speech to the joint congressional session.

Non-Committal On Russia

"The prime minister is counting heavily on cooperation with the United States to preserve peace in the post-war world," said one member, who declined to permit use of his name. "He admits that the attitude of Russia is a problem, and did not attempt to say what Russia will do."

Questions were asked bearing directly on the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill resolution for a senate declaration in favor of a United Nations conference to map peace plans and arrange to police the world after the war.

Churchill's attitude, it was reported by an influential member of the senate committee, is similar to that freely expressed by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden during a recent visit.

Shows More Confidence

Two attitudes of Churchill stood out in the minds of senators and representatives who talked to nim privately. They were:

1. He is supremely confident of winning the war, much more confident than during two previous visits.

2. He is confident that Russia will withstand a heavy German assault during the coming summer months.

Camping Periods Cut This Year

YWCA Camp Needs Three Counsellors; Swimming Pool To Be Painted

Problems presented by rationing have cut the periods at the Y. W. C. A. camp, East Brook, from three to two this summer.

The first period, for girls from 7-11 years of age, will begin Tuesday, July 6, and close Saturday, July 17. The second period, for girls from 12-18 years of age, will begin July 20 and close July 31. Miss Carolyn Slade, girls' club secretary at the "Y", will be the camp director.

Some difficulty is being experienced in securing counselors this year and three counselors are still needed, one each for swimming, music and dramatics.

Paint has also been secured for the camp swimming pool but no labor has been available for its application. Volunteers with strong arms and paint brushes are sought by the "Y" so that a day may be named when all may gather at the camp and apply paint.

Last year 132 girls between the ages of 8 and 18 years attended camp at East Brook.

Tregaskis, 6 feet 7 inches tall, wore his khaki uniform with the "Guadalcanal" shoulder emblem awarded to all veterans of that bloody campaign, as he showed up for the luncheon and was warmly greeted by the outstanding business and professional leaders of New York.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Pennsylvania factory employment continued to exceed 1,200,000 workers in April for the fifth consecutive month while payrolls rose one per cent to a new high of $49,000,000 a week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia revealed today.

Shoes Bought On Ration Stamp 18 June 16 And After

Validity Period To Be Announced June 1, After OPA Completes Survey

(International News Service)

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 21—The Office of Price Administration announced Thursday that stamp No. 18 in war ration book No. 1 will become valid June 16 for the purchase of one pair of shoes.

The OPA said that the validity of stamp No. 18 will be announced about June 1 when production and supply data now being recieved, has been thoroughly considered by all agencies involved.

Ration officials said, however, that present indications are that it will be possible to maintain the same ratio of one pair of shoes every four months, or three pairs a year, as announced in the original rationing program.

Each member of a family has one stamp No. 18, interchangeable among members of the family living in the same household. Stamp No. 17, which expires June 15, has been valid since last February 7.

Camp East Brook In July Is Busy Place

Variety Of Interests Engage Campers At Y.W.C.A. Camp During Summer Season

Visitors who come to Camp East Brook, the Y.W.C.A. camp for girls, on sunny days in July find 55 girls engaged in a variety of activities. Swimming leads in popularity, with much attention too to handcraft, dramatics, sports, and group games.

Swimming is the big event of the day to most campers. Carefully supervised by Red Cross Life-Savers, there are swim periods morning and afternoon. The pool at Camp East Brook is to be newly painted for the coming season.

Along with so many activities, the girls get nourishing food, rest and relaxation, sun and fresh air.

Going on in the handcraft group, under the supervision of Mrs. A. B. Anderson, there will be clay modeling, basketry and leathercraft.

The dramatics group works on a play to be given before the campers some evening.

Sports and games, mushball, tennis, hiking, badminton, pingpong, and general group games will be led by Miss Helen Hayes. Singing and victrola music are also favorite pastimes.

Special events are planned by the campers' council for some of the days. Worship services are held in a beautiful place set apart for them.

Girls who wish to enroll at Camp East Brook may inquire at the Y.W.C.A. office for further information.

Sergt. Augustine Ends Army Service

Completes Third "Hitch" For Uncle Sam; In Service In North Africa Recently

Sergeant Technician Charles Augustine, 520 Lutton street, who left here 11 months ago and was in North Africa five months in military intelligence and counter espionage has arrived home having been honorably discharged because of age.

It was Sergeant Augustine's third "hitch" in service. In 1914 he was with the Marines in Tampico, Vera Cruz, in 1915 in Haiti and in 1917 was in the army with General Pershing in Mexico and in 1917-18 was with the A. E. F.

He reached North Africa shortly after the American invasion and often was behind the enemy's lines. In brief, it may suffice to say that during his five months Sergeant Augustine seen plenty but because of military reasons says practically little of his experiences, some of which were dangerous and exciting.

Mess Sergeant Cites Four Ways To Save Food

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex.—Here ration-harried housewife, is a kitchen manager who can feed 500 men three substantial meals and at day's end carry all the resultant waste in one band.

The lad with the answer to war-shortened food budgets is the typical Army mess sergeant at Randolph Field. His four-point formula is simple.

1. Carefully controlled portions ladled out to diners. Everybody gets enough, but not too much.

2. Don't allow food to be left on trays.

3. Reprocess leftovers into appetizing new dishes. Untouched food left in serving pans goes into the squadron refrigerator. Cooked vegetables go into salads and stews, meat into hash, bread into puddings.

4. Salvage all useful inedibles like grease and bones for conversion into needed products.

And even the few gallons of platter scrapings from more than 1,500 meals daily at a typical squadron is salvaged. It is sold to hog raisers to be converted into pork chops and breakfast bacon for American tables.

FARMS AND FARMERS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY

By Lewis C. Dayton, County Agent

GROW LEGUMES FOR FEEDING TO SWINE

Because of the serious shortage of protein feeds, it is advisable for the farmer to plan his winter feed supply and produce as much of his own protein as possible.

Recent experiments show that very satisfactory gains can be made with as high as five to ten per cent of ground leguminous hay in the grain mixture of hogs. This amount can be used for growing pigs and for sows during the nursing peroid.

As high as 15 to 20 per cent of ground legume hay can be used to advantage in the grain mixture for brood sows during the gestation period.

Basing his action on this information the wise farmer will save some of his best alfalfa from the first cutting or some of his best clover or soybean hay which can be ground and included in the grain mixture for his hogs.

GENTLENESS WITH DAIRY COWS BRINGS DIVIDENDS

Cows are creatures of habit and respond to proper treatment. Most high-producing herds are quiet and gentle.

More milk is needed during the coming year, and abuse and mistreatment of dairy cows keeps milk out of the pail. The let-down of milk and the completeness of milking is controlled by the small pituitary gland back of the brain. The activity of this gland is controlled to some extent by the nervous system. To obtain the best results, a cow must not be excited, suspicious, afraid or angry.

Developing of confidence and a response to kindness should start with the young calf and be followed through the entire life of the animal. Patience in teaching a calf to drink, training to lead, handling heifers with kindness both in the barn and in the pasture, placing them in stanchions and brushing for a few weeks before freshening all are steps that develop a quietness which is beneficial at freshening time.

In addition to good feeding and management, regularity in feeding and milking helps to get more milk. Another point to remember is that the cows should be handled in such a manner that they want to be milked. This means gentleness, kindness and thoughtfulness.

GOOD START IS NEEDED IN STRAWBERRY GROWING

This year many new hands at strawberry growing are including this fruit as part of their victory gardens.

A good start is half the job in growing a productive patch for harvesting in 1944. The early production and rooting of new runner plants is essential to maximum yields. Cultivation should begin soon after the plants are set and should be continued at frequent intervals throughout the growing season. This will promote growth, keep down the weeds and encourage prompt rooting of the runner plants by keeping a crust from forming on the soil.

Cultivation, thorough but shallow, will keep the surface of the soil even. Care must be exercised that the crowns of the plants are not covered in cultivating and hoeing. Any crowns covered by washing or too deep planting should be uncovered immediately.

Manure is one of the best fertilizers for strawberries. It is applied preferably the year previous to planting, or at least worked into the ground before the plants are set. However, where this has not been done, an application may be made after planting. Unfortunately, fresh manure at this time creates a problem in cultivation and weed control. Poultry manure is frequently used as a side-dressing with good success.

High nitrogen fertilizer, such as nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia, applied about a month after planting, will stimulate more vigorous runner production. The fertilizer may be applied beside the row with a fertilizer distributor or by hand in 10-inch circles around individual plants. An application of 125 to 200 pounds to the acre is suggested. This will be about two teaspoons to the plant or a pound to 50 by 85 feet of row, assuming a planting distance of 18 inches between plants.

All flower stalks should be cut off as soon as they appear during the first season.

USE MARES TO PRODUCE BOTH COLTS AND POWER

Mares that are properly managed and fed can be worked up to foaling time and will produce a more vigorous and thrifty foal for so doing.

These mares can be worked and turned out when idle just as are other farm horses. Care should be taken, however, that the mare is not overworked or pulled too heavily at work that jerks or strains.

Feed need not be greatly different from that given to regular farm work horses. It is desirable that at least half of the hay ration be good quality clover or alfalfa.

NEED STRONG COLONIES FOR HONEY PRODUCTION

Comb honey production demands strong colonies of bees. Weak colonies need to be built up with package bees or frames of brood from extra good colonies.

The best colonies of bees this spring are those having an automatic feeder. A full depth super two-thirds full of sealed honey in the fall or a shallow extracting super full of honey is a feeder that is automatic and requires no attention until the first examination of the brood chamber in the spring. This examination is made just previous to fruit bloom time. Powerful colonies result from the food chamber practice.

Most of the colonies in Pennsylvania have required continuous feeding this spring prior to the first honey flow. All colonies should have the equivalent of two frames of honey in reserve at all times until the honey flow begins and plenty of pollen available.

CHICKS GET BENEFITS FROM BEING OUTDOORS

Chicks may be allowed to go outdoors as soon as the weather permits and the grass has had a chance to get well started.

The cooler temperature outside has a "hardening off" effect and helps to wean the chicks sooner from the heat of the stove. Moreover, the vitamin D obtained from sunshine will be helpful.

A small yard is helpful for training purposes the first few weeks if chicks are allowed on the ground. With such provision there is less danger of their straying too far and becoming chilled.

If the ground is poorly drained or bare of a sod covering, a sun porch may well be used until better soil conditions can be provided. Such a porch may be made of wire if obtainable. Otherwise, strips of wood one inch square and place one inch apart may be used for the floor and similar strips of builder's lath provided for sides and top.

A well drained thick sod makes an excellent range and tender grass is an excellent feed in itself. Such a pasture will help reduce cash costs for feedstuffs, notably mash, and also help make the critically short ingredients go further.

ZINNIAS ARE POPULAR WITH FLOWER GROWERS

Zinnias are popular with practically all flower lovers. These plants are half-hardy annual which have a mixed color range. The height varies from 12 to 36 inches.

Seed can be sown outdoors now in rich soil. It is best to space the plants about a foot apart to allow for compact effect. After planting, mulch zinnias with well-rotted cow manure or grass clippings. Zinnias require plenty of water during dry weather. Liquid manure may be applied when the plants begin to come into bloom.

Some desirable varieties are Royal Purple, Orange King, Ruby Red, Canary Yellow, Snowball, Red Ridinghood, as well as Fantasy, Scabius, Lilliput and Haageana in variety.

Additional information on zinnias and other annuals is available from the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle, upon request.

CLEMENCY PLEA BY CONVICTED MURDERER BEING CONSIDERED

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 21.—The state pardons board today was considering the clemency plea filed by 62-year-old Joseph M. Weisel who was sentenced by the Fayette county court in 1927 to serve a life sentence in Western State penitentiary for murdering his wife, Elizabeth, while she was asleep, in July 1926.

Herbert Maris, Philadelphia attorney, told the four-member board that Weisel's "splendid institutional record should entitle him to another chance even if he was guilty."

Weisel has steadfastly denied his guilt, Maris said, although he was convicted of first degree murder.

Jap Commander May Be Hara-Kari Victim, Suspicion

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Observers in Washington speculated today on the possibility that Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, top-ranking Japanese naval officer whose death was announced at Japanese Imperial headquarters may have committed hara-kiri as the result of a long string of defeats in the Pacific.

This possibility arose following the official Tokyo broadcast that Yamamoto was killed in April "while engaged in combat with the enemy aboard a war plane."

There was no confirmation of the admiral's death from any other source, and the naval circles were puzzled over the purpose behind the Tokyo disclosure. It may even mean an "about face" in Japan's entire Pacific strategy, it was felt.

No action of the major importance was reported in the Pacific war zones from Washington during April. On April 7, nearly 100 Jap planes attacked a United Nation's convoy off Guadalcanal, sinking three ships. Thirty nine Jap planes were destroyed.

Also on April 7, American planes shot down a four-engined Jap flying boat in the Central Solomons, and there was a chance the admiral may have been aboard.

The concensus among some observers was that Yamamoto may have committed "honorable suicide" or may have died a natural death resulting from age (he was 59) and worry over the defeats suffered by his navy during the past year.

Yamamoto's decline as "invincible" leader began in May last year when American carrier task forces trounced the Japanese in the Coral sea battle.

Goats become a pest in Hawaii after white men introduced them years ago. The goats ran wild, and so destroyed vegetation and trees as to cause serious erosion. One island, Kahoolawe, was so denuded of verdure that it threatened to be dust-blown into the sea, until measures were taken to exterminate the animals.

Hardly believable is the fact that America has a city more than 2100 miles long. It is Honolulu, capital of the Territory of Hawaii. The city's boundary includes Palmyra Island, 960 miles south, and Kure Island, 1204 miles northwest.

Japanese Make Last Attu Stand

U. S. Army Bombers And Troops Continue To Blast Enemy

By JOS A. BORS

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The navy revealed today that the Japanese have dug in at Attu village on the island of that name for a last stand while American troops supported by planes are continuing to blast the enemy in the Aleutians.

"On May 19, operations on Attu continued," the navy said. "Japanese forces have established positions on the high ground east of Attu village. U. S. army bombers attacked Japanese entrenchments in the area north of Sarana bay."

The village of Attu is located on Chichagof harbor, to which the Japs retreated after losing their defense positions around Holtz bay and Sarana pass.

In Small Area

The latest developments indicated that the Japanese have been compressed into an area of approximately 12 square miles and that there is virtually no hope for them.

The fact that the battle was continuing provided proof that the Japanese have decided to fight on to the last man and that few, if any, will be captured when the battle is concluded.

Death or capture for the remnants of the enemy's Attu force, which at one time was estimated at 3,000, was considered only a matter of hours or at the most days.

With the fall of Attu a virtual certainty, attention in naval circles turned toward Japanese-held Kiska, 200 miles to the east, where a larger enemy force has been entrenched. The Kiska Japs are now cut off from supplies by the American offensive.

On Attu, very little space separates Japanese positions east of Attu village and the enemy entrenchments in the area north of Sarana bay.

Six Billions For Lend-Lease

By ERWIN D. SIAS

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The House appropriations committee today approved and sent to the floor a $6,273,629,000 lend-lease appropriation bill praising the program as "a potential weapon" which will hasten victory.

"This is a crucial war, the end of which is not in sight," a committee report stated. "We need to prosecute it and do so vigorously with all our might.

"Lend-lease is one of the mights we can use most effectively."

By far the largest item recommended in the budget was $4,452,623,000 for agricultural, industrial and other commodities. The committee, however, struck $150,000,000 from the lend-lease administration's original request for $4,602,623,000.

Meanwhile, Lend-Lease Administrator E. R. Stettinius, Jr., in testimony made public today, disclosed that lend-lease aid from other Allied Nations "to us and to each other" is rapidly increasing.

Other recommendations included: transport vessels, $1,400,000,000; testing and repairing ships, $279,300,000; administrative expenses, $8,999,000.

Uncommitted funds from previous appropriations totaled, on May 1, $2,057,496,000, making a total availability of $8,331,125,000 for the period of May 1, 1943 to June 30, 1944.

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY IS MISSING

John Sutton Jr., 15, who has been missing from his home, 217 East Wallace avenue, since he left for school on Monday has not yet been heard from or located, relatives said today.

The missing student is five feet six inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has a fair complexion with light hair and blue eyes.

Local and state police have been notified.

The sulphur-bottom whale, which may be as much as 85 or 90 feet long and may weigh nearly 100 tons, is the largest living animal. No prehistoric animal was as bulky as this, although two or three of the great extinct reptiles may have been a little longer.

Sympathizing with the local gardeners and hoping to alleviate the condition, Coen issued the following Mickey Finns:

List of Panaceas

One repellent very effective is powdered lime sprinkled lightly on the plants when they are damp. The sprinkling of dusting sulphur liberally over the plants is also effective. Others include wood ashes and red pepper mixed and sprinkled on the plants; three ounces of epsom salts to one gallon of water; or one teasponful of creolin or lysol to one gallon of water.

Dried blood or blood meal may be sprinkled on and along the rows of plants, and rain only make it more effective. In the case of small backyard gardens, the bloody water in which meat or poultry has been washed should be saved and sprinkled on the vegetables. If properly used, none of these is injurious to the plants but rabbits do not like them.

"Some of the regular commercial sprays when properly used serve a dual purpose," Protector Coen pointed out. Among the commercial insecticides, "Blackleaf Forty" (a tobacco extract) used in the proportion of two teaspoonfuls to one gallon of soapy water is effective in controlling many of the common garden insect pests, and is also a satisfactory repellent to rabbits. The frequency with which these repellents must be used depends upon the amount of rainfall and the rate of plant growth.

Game Protector Coen said that some people have had splendid success by stretching rope, heavy cord, binder twine, or similar material soaked in creosote around vegetable beds a few inches from the ground. Others have used empty soft drink, catsup, or other bottles on their vegetable beds. These are placed in the ground, neck down, at few-feet intervals over the vegetable beds and apparently the reflection of light from the bottles scares the rabbits away.

Another device consists of stretching heavy string or cord around the vegetable bed about eighteen to twenty inches above the ground, depending upon the kind of crops grown, and attaching thereto white cloth streamers about a foot apart. These streamers should not quite reach to the ground, and when the wind blows they will be ever more effective. Moth balls scattered around the edge of the garden or vegetable bed have been successful in many instances in keeping rabbits, as well as deer, from destroying crops.

"There are, no doubt, other simple and effective repellents or home-made devices which are not expensive and produce the desired results. Those who know about other successful ones should share that knowledge with their neighbors," Game Protector Coen concluded.

Gas Stamps No. 6 Are Not Valid Here May 22, Warning

Gasoline ration stamps number six are not good in the eastern area until July 22, even though the owner of them lives in an area where they are good on May 22, Robert A. Eckles, executive secretary of the War Price and Rationing Board, declared today.

"Some dealers believe that because a car owner lives in the Ohio or Sharon area where the stamps are good, they can be used here," said Mr. Eckles. "This is not true. The only stamps that will get gas in this district until July 22 are the number five stamps."

Gasoline dealers are reminded that if they accept any number six stamps they will not be able to turn them in for credit.

Strikes Close Six Plants At Detroit

(International News Service)

DETROIT, May 21.—With six Detroit war plants closed by wildcat strikes throwing 30,000 workers into idleness, employer spokesmen said today an extension of the walkouts may close all Chrysler factories and jeopardize the jobs of 85,000 other employes.

The walkouts, which affected four Chrysler plants in one of the most extensive work stoppages in Detroit since Pearl Harbor, spread throughout the city despite a War Labor Board demand that the strikers return to work.

If the work stoppages continue, Chrysler officials declared, the 85,000 employes in 23 other Chrysler plants will be forced out of work.

Employer spokesmen termed the walkouts "sabotage", but union officials blamed the slowness of the WLB in handling their contract grievances and management for "inflammatory and provocative practices to agitate labor trouble."

The strikers are members of the United Automobile Workers, CIO.

After the strikes began yesterday morning, the WLB demanded the strikers "return to work immediately".

WAR MANPOWER SESSION IS HELD

Beaver-Lawrence County Commission Meets Here Wednesday To Consider Situation

Second meeting of the management-labor committee of the War Manpower Commission for the Beaver-Lawrence county area was held May 19 in New Castle to discuss the program and its objectives, Alfred C. Scott, acting area director, announced today.

Scott emphasized that full community cooperation is being sought in application of the program. Management and labor, particularly, he said, will be asked to aid in bringing the program to rapid and full development.

Objectives

Six co-ordinated activities are embraced within the overall chart of objectives, as follows:

1. To eliminate unnecessary and wasteful labor turnover and disruptive hiring practices by means of employment stabilization plans which restrict the transfer of workers in essential activities unless they secure statements of availability before they can change employment, and which provide for the orderly transfer of workers from one job to another when such transfers contribute more effectively to the war effort.

2. To bring about the most effective allocation of available supplies of workers by means of central hiring controls which require the channeling of hiring, transfer and allocation of all workers in certain specified occupations, activities, or establishments through local employment offices of the War Manpower Commission.

3. To insure an adequate and orderly withdrawal of manpower from essential establishments to the armed forces, and the orderly replacement of such manpower by means of manning tables and replacement schedules, which provide the Selective Service System with specific withdrawal schedules for workers in essential establishments who are draft eligibles, and which, at the same time provide essential establishments and the WMC with specific schedules of labor needs.

4. To encourage good personnel and production practices which assure the full utilization of presently employed workers, by means of a manpower utilization consultant service, which will provide for plant surveys and plant studies, and will give specific assistance to essential establishment in regard to the necessary steps which must be taken in order that each worker in the plant may be used at full capacity.

5. To meet basic labor needs of essential establishments by means of integrated training and intensive recruitment efforts, which bring about the complete mobilization of all local labor supply, including women, minority groups and handicapped workers prior to the controlled in-migration of such outside workers as are necessary to meet the employment demands within the area.

6. To assure the provision of community facilities and services adequate to keep workers in essential establishments on the job and to encourage potential manpower reserves to enter the labor market by development of adequate community programs for the provision of housing, transportation, day care, recreation health and welfare services through appropriate federal, state and local agencies.

Scott stated the local management-labor committee will assist in carrying out the program on a local basis in conjunction with the area and local War Manpower Commission offices. Area directors and United States Employment Service managers with the assistance of these committees, will be responsible for adapting the regional program to the needs of the specific community, and will be responsible for securing the complete participation of the community concerned. All constituent agencies of the War Manpower Commission are being directed to integrate their activities to conform with this program.

Sufficient authority as well as responsibility for adapting the regional program to the area needs, and for carrying out this program, has been delegated by the regional director to the area directors, Scott said.

SQUASH BUGS

Squash bugs are large, brownish, sucking insects having a disagreeable odor from which they get the common name squash stink bug.

Winter is passed under rubbish or other shelter and the bugs emerge in the late spring. The eggs are small, brown and flattened on three sides. The bodies of the newly hatched nymphs are green, while the remaining portions are reddish, but they soon change to black. The insects become full grown about the middle of August, although immature forms may be found when the vines are killed by frost. There is one generation annually.

The insects suck the plant juices, which results in a wilting and browning of the leaves or wilting of the entire vines. When stink bugs are numerous enough, plants may be killed outright. Mature squash may be damaged by young bugs if frost kill the vines before the young are fully grown.

Squash bugs may be trapped under pieces of boards placed at the base of each plant. The insects gather under these traps at night. They then may be gathered and destroyed the following morning. Where there are only a few plants, hand picking of the adults and crushing the eggs which are laid on both surfaces of the leaves may be sufficient control.

The mature and young stink bugs may be destroyed by thorough wetting of the insects with strong nicotine sulphate spray at the rate of two tablespoons in one gallon of water, or three teaspoons of nicotine sulphate and three tablespoons of soap flakes or soap chips in one gallon of water.

Pyrethrum dust and phrethrum spray are equally effective. They should be used as recommended on the container.

Sell Gas Shovel, Ask Truck Bids

Council met Thursday in the city building and sold to Tom Bevan, local coal dealer, a P&H model gas power shovel at a best bid of $2,000. The Allegheny Equipment company offered to buy the shovel for $1,050. The shovel no longer was desired by the streets department. However, the city then asked for bids on a new dump truck for the streets department.

There's an unfailing rule for recognizing those who are "as good as anybody". They don't mention it.

Parking Meter Problem Given Council Time

Representatives of the Mark Time meter Thursday conferred with Mayor Charles B. Mayne and council colleagues in an effort to sell more, but reportedly better grade Mark Time meters to the city at a cost of $47.50, less adapter or cost of the base. The original Mark Time meter bought here cost about $58.00.

According to the representative the meter offered to the city now is of much better material and it is so arranged that when a nickel is deposited in the slot it will not bounce out when the "crank" is turned.

Mayor Mayne and Public Safety Director D. O. Davies were also interested in a Mark Time type that would give 15 minutes parking for one penny in front of banks and the post-office.

The mayor stated that he would also be interested in a meter, if there was such, that would allow two hours parking for a time in order that movie patrons could park cars, pay a dime, then see a movie. Shows last longer than one hour, hence his interest in a "marathon" meter.

The representative suggested that a different traffic arrangement instead of a "dime-two hours-parking meter" he sought. In other words, he would make less used thoroughfares a two hours limit for parking.

No definite action was taken toward a purchase. However, Arthur Harris, meter service operator and the representative were asked to make a study as to how many new meters would be needed for the balance of the year if the council were so disposed to vote for the Mark Time.

Triplets' Mother Sorry They Were Not Quadruplets

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 21.—Chicago's mother of triplets, all born by Caesarian operation, had only one small regret today—that there were not more of them.

The 32-year-old Mrs. Mary Pahr said at Columbus hospital where the three tiny girl babies arrived Tuesday within minutes of each other:

"Of course I'm happy at having triplets, but I'm somewhat disappointed that they weren't quadruplets. Maybe the next time, though, we'll have quads—or even quints."

The history of her husband's family, showing plentiful multiple births for the past several generations, gave strength to her hopes, she thought.

Meanwhile the new triplets, Frances, Joan and Helen ,thrived in the incubator at the Sarah Morris premature station of Michael Reese hospital—seven miles away.

The jubilant dad, Frank, 36, returned to his job in the children's shoe department of a large Chicago store, after admitting "I wasn't of much use."

Danger To Forces Seen By U. S. Recapture Of Attu Island

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 21.—The danger to Japan itself through American recapture of embattled Attu island in the Aleutians was conceded today by the Nazi-operated Hilversum radio which admitted that the Nipponese also may be compelled to evacuate Kiska.

The broadcast in the Dutch language was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

"If Attu were occupied by the Americans," said the announcer, "the situation in Japan itself might be affected." He pointed out that no one could "underestimate the importance of the landing on Attu since it forms a link in the chain of islands between America and Siberia and lies comparatively near to Japan."

Still more serious, the broadcast continued, would be American occupation of Kiska and its "four airdromes".

The Nazis said that in the expected attacks on Kiska the Americans will encounter stronger resistance than at Attu "but the United States may use such large forces that the Japanese may be compelled to evacuate the island."

(International News Service)

New Police Officer Lands In The 'Jug'

DALLAS, Tex.—Police Sergt. Mike Higgins wasn't putting up with any rough stuff and he cornered the man, who a few minutes before had tried to walk past the jail door.

"Where do you think you're going?" he inquired. "Get along in the jail office with the rest of them."

The man started stammering: "But, I'm—"

"No buts about it. Go along there!" Higgins ordered and pushed him in the line of prisoners returning to the jail from Corporation Court.

An embarrassing moment followed when the man showed His ins credentials proving him to be R. L. Patton, a police officer on the force only a few weeks.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER
City Health Superintendent

HYDROPHOBIA

Rabies or hydrophobia comes from the bite of a mad dog or other animal suffering from the disease.

The dog is the most likely animal to have it but it may affect any of our animals.

The disease may show up in about a week after the bite or a long time afterward.

The nearer the bite is to the brain the sooner the disease appears.

Bites on the face or head are the most serious. Any dog that is sick or shows signs of weakness or paralysis should be carefully watched and kept in.

If a bite happens, the dog should not be killed but watched for signs of the disease.

If the disease shows up in the dog, there is plenty of time to take care of the person who was bitten.

The Pasteur treatment should be given to every person bitten by a rabid animal.

It is furnished free by the government, your doctor can tell you about it.

Many 'Y' Members Take Active Part In Clubs, Classes

Last year, 580 Y.W.C.A. members participated actively in a club, a class, or on a committee, according to the Membership Committee.

The 1943 membership ingathering was a success with the members this year numbering 1,420 an increase of 141 over last year. Over $2,000 was contributed this year as against $1,912 last year. Two new churches and two new clubs were included this year, making a total of 32 separate groups who made the ingathering possible.

The Personnel Committee of the "Y" secured Miss Carolyn Slade of Gloversville, N. Y., through the National Y.W.C.A. Personnel Bureau to take the staff position vacated by the resignation of Miss Dorothy Stewart last year after a service of 12 years. Miss Slade is Girl Reserve, Industrial Recreation and Camp Director.

During the past year, Thomas Greer, a house employe, retired after 16 years service because of ill health and Grover Blews took over his work.

The Personnel Committee has also reported the resignation of Miss Josephine Sroczynska, International Secretary, after 19½ years service. Her resignation becomes effective late this summer.

Financier Warns Against Post-War Worthless Stock

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—A warning against the transfer of government bonds and securities into worthless stock during the post-war period was sounded by the vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia.

"It has been estimated that government secuirties after the last war were exchanged for dubious or worthless stocks at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a month," C. A. Sienkiewicz asserted. "It will be our responsibilty to prevent any such occurrence after the present war."

Deposits and current now total approximately $100,000,000,000 compared to about $60,000,000,000 in 1939, Sienkiewicz said.

Clothes Rationing May Not Be Required

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Details of a plan to preclude clothes rationing were withheld today pending further conferences of retailers with WPB Chairman Donald Nelson and Civilian Requirements Chief Arthur Whiteside.

After working out the plan, WPB officials said they believed that rationing could be avoided if complete public cooperation is obtained.

Nelson recently told a congressional committee that clothes ration was "immient" unless the government and the clothing industry found a quick solution to immediate supply problems.

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 22.—Gov. Edward Martin neatly sidestepped possible Democratic opposition to scores of executive nominations during the 1943 session by withholding them until after adjournment . . . When the legislature convened on January 5 former Gov. Arthur H. James submitted to the Senate the names of hundreds of appointees but one of Martin's first official acts after he was inaugurated on January 19 was to withdraw all of James' appointments . . . While the governor naturally had his own appointees in mind the failure to submit other nominees later probably was prompted by the fact that Democrats served notice they would scrutinize each appointment very carefully and possibly block confirmation because the Republicans lacked two votes to approve the governor's selections.

Now that the general assembly has adjourned, the governor is making interim appointments which will be valid until the next session of the legislature when all executive nominations named after the session ended must be submitted to the Senate for confirmation . . . If the Democrats hold the balance of power in the upper chamber at that time, they probably will not give blanket approval to all appointments.

One of the many problems that would be posed by approval of the "big truck" bill would be the necessity of restricting the huge tractor-trailer combinations to certain roads because some bridges would not be able to withstand the maximum 45,000 gross weight load . . . The highway department has accelerated its bridge-posting program to show drivers the tonnage limit and clearance on bridges . . . Of more than 17,000 bridges on the state's highway system, 3725 have been posted as unable to meet full legal requirements, according to the highways department . . . The governor has not indicated whether he will sign the truck measure and some legislators have asserted that there is no need for approving it because the war powers bill would give him authority to suspend truck weight limits upon the recommendations of federal officials.

Teachers received a setback when the legislature failed to enact a measure setting up an equalization fund to continue the Cordier-Hare salary wage increase bill after July 1, 1945 . . . The salary bill will give more than 60,000 teachers "cost-of-living" wage increases ranging between $200 and $600 which must be paid before July 1945 . . . The equalization proposal would have leveled state aid on the basis of property values with financially-distressed districts receiving more money than wealthier districts . . . However, the assembly passed a bill setting up a 15-member commission to study a long range program for financing public education, including permanent salary increases . . . The members will report to the next session of the legislature.

TWELVE KILLED IN WORST PLANE CRASH IN CHICAGO

Bomber Strikes Towering Gas Storage Tank In Chicago On Thursday

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 21.—Army officials today launched an inquiry into the worst plane disaster in Chicago's history, the crash of a huge four-motored Liberator bomber into a towering gas storage tank which killed all 12 on board.

The bomber, groping its way at only 100 feet altitude through unfavorable weather, smashed yesterday into the 485-foot high tank filled with 18,000,000 cubic feet of illuminating gas, causing a terrific explosion that rocked southwest Chicago.

Flames shot hundreds of feet into the sky. They were followed by a dense pall of smoke which spread over the region as tar used for sealing the tank burst and smoldered most of last night. The tank was said to be the largest in the world.

Names of 10 of the 12 victims were released at the Fort Worth, Tex., army flying field, where the plane had taken off at 6 a. m. CWT yesterday on a routine training flight. The names of two persons, said to be passengers, were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The others killed and their next of kin included:

Second Lieut. David S. Alter, Pittsburgh, Pa., flight officer; mother, Mrs. Diana S. Alter, Pittsburgh.

Lieut. Alter was married only six weeks ago to Miss Margaret Kelly of Fort Worth.

Second Lieut. Frederick L. Dutt, student officer; father, Edward O. Dutt, Wadsworth, O.

Pvt (FC) Nick Lonchar, aerial engineer; father, Mike Lonchar, Wierton, W. Va.

Staff Sgt. Norman W. Yutzy, aerial engineer, Canton, Mo.; mother, Mrs. Bertha Yutzy, Garrett, Pa.

HARRISBURG, May 21 — A little more than two weeks remained today for Gov. Edward Martin to consider the 368 bills that remain in the stack that was placed on his desk by the legislature during the closing days of the session.

Since the general assembly adjourned on May 9 the governor has approved only two minor measures and a bill earmarking one per cent of the tax on premiums paid by foreign casualty insurance companies for municipal police pension funds. The governor must sign or veto all bills passed during the last 10 days of the 1943 session before June 7.

Although all bills passed by the legislature must be scrutinized by the justice department for legal defects, there was a possibility that some of the acts will be tested in the courts, especially the police pension measure and the congressional reapportionment bill.

To Contest Bill

Sen. George Woodward (R) Philadelphia served notice on the assembly that he would retain former Attorney General William A. Schnader, of Philadelphia, to question the police bill's constitutionality in the state supreme court. Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence said he would fight the redistricting measure in the U. S. supreme court.

Governor Martin was expected to withhold as late as possible action on the cent-a-gallon emergency tax on gasoline on the chance that it may be possible to drop the levy if incoming revenue from other sources is otherwise sufficient.

In addition to the major appropriation bills awaiting action, the governor has scores of other important measures which would revamp various governmental functions. Approval of the parole bill was expected as soon as the governor completed his selections for the new three-member agency that will replace the five-member Pennsylvania board of parole which became inoperative when the legislature adjourned.

Names advanced for membership on the board included Secretary of Welfare Sophia M. R. O'Hara; J. Paul Pedigo, secretary to former Gov. Arthur H. James and a member of the old parole board; James Haggerty, of Pittsburgh, another member of the old board and a veteran in penal affairs; Warden Stanley P. Ashe, of the Western State Penitentiary; and Maj. Henry C. Hill, superintendent of the State Industrial School for Boys at White Hill.

Says Large Number Not Saving Cans

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 21.—Less than half of Pennsylvania's housewives are salvaging tin cans and only one-third are saving household fats urgently needed for conversion into glycerin for war purposes, the State Defense Council warned today.

"If every home in Pennsylvania would save its tin cans and if every housewife contributed a tablespoonful of waste fats every day, we would exceed our quota in every county," the council stated.

Current declines in fats and tin can salvage, the council added, could be offset by "increasing the number of households participating".

Plexiglass Used In Research And As Bomber Noses

Aircraft Radio And Electronic Equipment Can Be Tested For Seven Miles Up

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., May 21.—Thanks to transparent plexiglass, R.C.A. engineers today can test radio and electronic equipment for aircraft use under simulated stratosphere conditions.

The testing chamber is actually an unfinished nose of an American bomber, the engineers said. Its transparency makes it possible for more than one person to note performance of apparatus, eliminating the use of small portholes necessary in the standard test chambers built of metal.

Defects in design or construction can be spotted in a glance, the engineers say, in praising the chamber which shows atmospheric conditions.

"At seven and a half miles up, many things can happen to aircraft radio and electronic equipment," they pointed out. "Apparatus of this type incorporates many delicate mechanisms. Low temperature and pressures bring about changes in these delicate mechanisms which may cause current leakage."

Cone-shaped, the plexi-glass test chamber is four feet high and five feet in diameter at the base.

SICKNESS REDUCED TO ONE P.C. IN ARMY

ATLANTA, Ga. — Despite the known prevalence of typhoid, typhus, dysentry, malaria and other diseases in Africa, the sickness rate of American troops is only one per cent, according to Colonel Sanford W. French, Chief of Medical Branch, Headquarters Fourth Service Command.

"This very low percentage is in great part due to the Army's new clothing decontamination method, a military secret, which is employed in the delousing of American troops," Colonel French declared.

USES To Continue Farm Labor Supply Work Until June 1

(Special To The News)

PHILADELPHIA, May 21—Under the terms of an agreement recently entered into with the Extension Service of the Department of Agriculture, the U. S. Employment Service will continue to handle farm labor recruitment and placement in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware at least until June 1. The extent to which the experienced farm-labor personnel of USES will function after that date in supplying workers to farms in the Third Region of the War Manpower Commission is to be decided in negotiations now under way between WMC and Extension Service officials of the three states, it was announced today by W. T. Englehorn, acting director of WMC.

At conferences held shortly after the recent enactment of a federal law which charges the Extension Service with responsibility for farm-labor supply on an intra-state basis, the USES heads in the three states agreed to continue temporarily their widely organized activities. Between now and June 1 the Extension Service officials will determine whether they will take over the work and operate with their own administrative and field staffs or enter into a contractual arrangement with USES to do all or part of the job for them.

AIR TRAVEL DOUBLES BETWEEN AMERICAS

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla.—Commercial air traffic between the Americas has been almost doubled over that of a year ago, it was revealed in a Pan American Airways summary of operations for the first quarter of 1943.

Clipper planes of the Eastern division fleet—serving the Caribbean, Central and South America—showed an increase of 75 per cent in piling up more than 3,000,000 miles of flight during the period.

Air cargo—moving for the most part under government priorities—showed an even larger rate of increase. For instance, during March, the clippers flew 248,236 express ton miles, an increase of 134 per cent over the 106,012 ton miles of March, 1942.

Passenger miles of the eastern division totaled 10,411,604 for March, as compared to 9,017,293 for the same month last year.

Women in Hawaii who formerly made leis, or floral wreaths, to throw over the necks of visitors as tokens of welcome, now make camouflage nets for use at military areas.

GARDEN TRAVEL MAY BE EXEMPT

Victory Gardening Necessary Travel May Be Allowed By OPA, Is Report

By WILLIAM E. ZIMMERMAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Automobile travel for victory gardening, it was reported today, will be exempt form the pleasure driving ban in 13 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

It was indicated that provisions for victory gardeners will be made in the OPA's formal interpretation of its latest edict which is expected to be made today.

OPA recently announced that persons with gardens measuring 1500 square feet or more are eligible for additional gasoline rations to cover 300 miles in the six-month growing season and this is expected to be continued despite the critical gasoline situation in the east.

Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, in clamping down the ban on non-essential driving, said that it was necessary to assure supplies of gas to the military and the nation's farms. In line with this it was pointed out that the government has long urged participation in the victory garden program to aid America's food supply.

May Extend Ban

OPA's rules on what can and cannot be done under the new driving ban are expected to be along the lines of those laid down last winter when the gasoline prohibition was first invoked in the east.

Meanwhile, Petroleum Administrator Ickes said that further restructions on the use of gasoline may be necessary before the present crisis is overcome. He indicated that the ban on pleasure driving may be extended to the middle west.

Ickes said that the present gas shortage is "pretty serious" and is caused, in the main, by a break in the 24-inch oil pipeline at Little Rock, Ark., as a result of a flood there.

Seriousness of the situation was reflected in an announcement by the War Food Administration which said that thousands of tractors are already idle in a vast food-producing area from northern Virginia through New England.

New Jersey, Delaware, eastern Pennsylvania and New York from Rochester to the lower Hudson valley, and all of New England, were reported "extremely short".

Floating Club At Pittsburgh Sinks

Patrons And Employes Abandon Ship As Night Club Founders In Monongahela

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 21.—The "Yacht Club," Pittsburgh's only floating night club, settled to the bottom of the Monongahela river early today. Patrons and hired hands "abandoned ship" about an hour and a half before the palatial club went down.

Water covered the entire first deck and the dance floor to about a depth of 14 feet on the midstream side. Whisky and other supplies at the bar were ruined, but a large quantity of liquor on the top deck was not damaged, according to Sol Heller, who operates the club with his brother, "Little Jackie" Heller, noted Pittsburgh night club singer.

The baot was moored along the Water street wharf, near Liberty avenue. Heller blamed absenteeism for his loss, claiming the man who pumped water from the hull every day failed to report for work yesterday. He was unable to say when he would be able to re-float the ship.

Pillsbury's Cheese Biscuits

WITH VICTORY VEGETABLES

. . . a quick, wartime meal, so easy to make with dependable Pillsbury's Best.

A tempting way to give your family essential vitamins, minerals, and quick food-energy

PILLSBURY'S CHEESE BISCUITS with VICTORY VEGETABLES

Serves 6 hungry people

TEMPERATURE: 450° F. TIME: About 25 minutes

- 2½ cups sifted PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 5½ teaspoons baking powder (or 2½ teaspoons double-acting)
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup shortening
- 1 cup milk
- 1½ cups (¼ lb.) grated nippy cheese
- 5 cups fresh-cooked or canned mixed vegetables (potatoes, onions, carrots, peas, beans, beets, corn, or lima beans)

1. Sift flour once, measure; add baking powder and salt; sift again. 2. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. 3. Add milk all at once; mix until all flour is dampened. 4. Knead on floured board a few seconds to smooth surface. 5. Pat or roll out in a rectangle 10x8 inches. Spread with cheese. 6. Roll up as for jelly roll, the long way of the dough. Cut in six slices. Flatten out and shape each slice to about 3½ inches in diameter. 7. Place on greased baking sheet, cut side up. Bake in hot oven. 8. Serve with hot, buttered, and seasoned vegetables and tomato sauce.

We predict: you'll be taking fluffy, piping-hot Cheese Biscuits from your oven several times a week! First—because the "tender blend" of wheats in Pillsbury's Best gives them a delectable tenderness, yet they're full-bodied and satisfying as you could wish! Second—the protein in these Pillsbury's Best biscuits, plus the protein in the cheese, make them a valuable meat supplement these days. Third—your family's eager enthusiasm for these flavorful, unusually tender biscuits gives you even more reasons to have them often!

Tomato Sauce

- 3 tablespoons fat or drippings
- 3 tablespoons PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder (optional)
- 3½ cups (No. 2½ can) tomatoes, juice and pulp

1. Combine fat, flour, and seasonings in saucepan. 2. Add tomatoes gradually, stirring constantly. Cook over direct heat until thick and smooth. 3. Serve as directed in Step 8 above.

Pillsbury's Best Enriched Flour

What about proteins? With meat shortages, enriched white flour can help you plan well balanced meals with adequate protein content. The protein content of baked foods made with milk and enriched flour is very, very good, and when further combined with cheese, eggs, nuts, or sea food, provides protein that leaves nothing to be desired from the standpoint of good nutrition. Serve plenty of baked foods and breads to supplement the nutritive values of other foods. Remember, white flour, enriched as your government recommends, is plentiful.

Service Men Need Not Renew Drivers License During War

Driving Privileges Of All In Service "Frozen"; Easily Renewed After War

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, May 21.—For the duration of the war, persons serving in the armed forces of the United States are free of the bother of renewing their motor vehicle operator's license, the Pennsylvania Motor Federation-AAA said today.

This "freezing" of the driving privileges of men and women in the service is one of the results of the enactment of a bill sponsored by the federation and its 61 affiliated clubs and 177,000 motorist members. In addition, the law signed by Governor Edward Martin earlier this month establishes a simplified procedure by which service men and women can obtain post-war driving cards without taking another examination or paying an additional learner's permit fee.

Introduced by Reps. Charles H. Brunner Jr. of Montgomery county, and Edwin C. Ewing of Allegheny county, the new law automatically extends for the duration of the war the operator's license of service men and women who held a valid Pennsylvania license during the year, or the year before the year, in which they entered the armed forces of the country. Subject only to the restriction that their pre-service license has not been revoked or suspended, it extends them the privilege of operating motor vehicles on Pennsylvania highways when in the state "on leave or furlough, or for any other reason."

Diversification In Stock Buying Urged By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON

(Copyright, 1943, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

NEW YORK CITY, May 21.—When in New York my mind naturally concentrates on Wall Street where I make my headquarters while in this city. Today I especially desire to write on the purchase of stocks in view of the letters that are coming in to me from amateur investors. Many who were cleaned out in 1929 or 1936 are again itching for another trial. Many more who have never before bought any stocks are now beginning to nibble. Therefore, let me this week explain three chief methods of buying stocks.

BABSON

Short Turns Dangerous

Unfortunately, a large percentage of the buying of stocks is for a "short term", which may be called the first method. This applies 100 per cent to the trading by men and women who hang around brokerage offices. Far too many people who do not visit brokerage offices also look at the stock market as a place to gamble rather than to invest. As they are used to winning or losing quickly at horse races and elsewhere they expect quick profits or losses in the stock market. In many cases they get in and out the same day; perhaps a majority get in and out within a week or a month at the latest; while nothing exceeding three months would be looked upon as a "short term" purchase.

Naturally, these people do not bother with a broad line of stocks. They select some one or two which some one picks for them as "winners". There really is not any other way to play this dangerous, but most fascinating, game. I, who have been in Wall Street a good part of the past 40 years, can give no worthwhile advice on short-term buying except that such should be for cash only. Avoid margin accounts or bank borrowing. Remember that debt kills more men than germs do. Recognize that 50 per cent of the deaths among investors comes from heart disease. If I knew how to make money in short-term stock market operations, I would not be bothering to write this column today!

Buying For the Long-Pull

The second method is to buy stocks when they are comparatively cheap as at present, be prepared to keep them for from one to two years and then sell them out at a good profit. This sounds very simple and would work perfectly if, when selling out these stocks, the investor would be content to leave his money idle in the bank for a year or two until stocks again fall to low prices; then re-invest and do it over again. This is the way most great fortunes have been created in the stock market. Furthermore, such investors perform a real service for their profits. They purchase stocks when everyone is frightened or uncertain and hence they prevent a complete collapse; then they later sell out when everyone becomes bullish and thus prevent a reckless boom. For thus helping to steady business conditions, they are fully entitled to their profits.

When buying for the long-pull, one should diversify and probably employ some long-established investment advisory service for making selections. Purchasing stocks on this long-pull method should be done intelligently. All purchases should be based upon careful study and research. It is very sad to see men invest quickly and carelessly money which they have been years accumulating by hard work and careful thrift. The long-pull method is legitimate and fairly foolproof provided one sticks to it and does not temporarily wander over the fence into pastures that appear greener at the moment.

Permanent Investing

The third method is used by the man who buys each year a very diversified list of securities with the intention of never selling unless he makes purchases and sales by an approved automatic formula. He is content to rely on a 6 per cent return knowing that money doubles itself every 12 years under such conditions. He further has a religious faith that the world is constantly getting better; and he is never disturbed by bad news, low prices or even panics. He gives much thought to studying financial reports in making his selections but, after once making a purchase, seldom looks at current stock market prices. He does not borrow money; he buys a very broad list depending on the law of averages for his security, income and profits. He usually invests money when he has it, irrespective of whether prices are high or low.

I like to help people who use this third method but such people must be of stolid temperament and be willing to see prices go down to half the price paid, believing they will more than come back. Such investors look only at a company's property and financial resources, which usually are constantly increasing, rather than at stock market quotations. The latter never bothers them. Available statistics indicate that in the long run this third method of investing for permanency gives the best results. It is even said that trustees who make no sales have a better record, over the long term, than those who are always attempting to sell the poor stuff and keep only the best. This is because this latter policy results in always taking losses and never taking profits which, if continued long enough, could be very dangerous to those whose funds they hold in trust.

Importance of Self-Control

It is not up to me to advise in this column which of the three methods is preferable for any one reader. The answer depends upon the age, temperament, health, dependents, financial resuroces and many other factors in the case of each individual. This one thing I do say, however: decide which of the three methods you wish to follow and stick to that method. Most of the losses in the stock market are due to trying to combine these three systems of investing. This means that the man who has not character, self-control and courage had better confine his investments to United States government bonds, series E, F or G.

Jap Fleet Only Hope For Kiska

Japan Must Risk Fleet If Any Hopes Are Entertained for Holding Kiska

SUPPLY LINES NOW BEING CUT

By RICHARD HALLER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

HONOLULU, May 21.—The sole chance that the Japs have to save any of their forces on the Aleutian island of Kiska once Attu has been retaken by the Americans, in the opinion of observers here today, is to bring the Japanese navy into action.

The question of whether the Japs will dare dispatch a portion of their fleet to protect Kiska or attempt to remove its garrisons is at the moment one of the most interesting in the entire Pacific war theater. With Attu, the westernmost of the Aleutians, in American hands and United States forces able to cut the enemy supply lines the only salvation for Kiska appears up to the Japanese navy.

Word from Washington concerning the support given American ground forces by navy units indicates the probable presence of formidable U. S. navy strength to protect the necessary supply lines to Attu. This protection is believed especially necessary to ward off danger of Japanese submarine action.

Probably Subs On Kiska

Although the Japs probably have subs based on Kiska it is improbable that the Japs have sufficient air power there or adequate supplies for prolonged resistance if the U. S. navy completely cuts off the enemy lifeline to Kiska.

U. S. occupation of Attu, it is pointed out, is extremely valuable because the weather travels eastward and therefore American forces at the westward end of the Aleutians will have available vital information regarding conditions surrounding Kiska. This knowledge will facilitate direct action against Kiska.

There is no doubt among persons in Hawaii that the objective of the current campaign is to drive the Japs out entirely from the Aleutians. Recapture of this island chain will break off at least 700 miles of the Japanese arc extending from the Aleutians to the Solomon islands and perhaps make possible early extension of United States aerial activity against Japan.

The possibility that a portion of the Jap fleet might come out to protect Kiska undoubtedly was considered before the attack on Attu was made. Therefore, U. S. naval forces presumably are prepared for this contingency and looking forward to the appearance of Jap navy combat forces which recently have made themselves scarce on the open seas.

The best minds, however, doubt that the Japs will be exposed to great odds. The Aleutian campaign, on the other hand, could be the prelude to the awaited out and out sea engagement with the Jap navy since it is felt the Japanese cannot afford not to make an offensive thrust somewhere along the Pacific arc in a face saving effort.

Two Autos Burn In Garage Fire

Two automobiles were destroyed in a fiire in a double garage in the rear of the home of George W. Bunnell, of 210½ North Lafayette street, at 1:30 o'clock this morning. Damage to the garage and contents was estimated by firemen at around $800.

The cause of the fire was not determined, but when discovered had gained considerable headway.

British cash purchases of essential war items in the United States have exceeded $7,000,000,000, almost equal to the cumulative value of all Land-Lease aid extended by the United States from March 11, 1942, to Nov. 30, 1942.

Phils Roll On, Win Two; Jack-Monty Fight Tonight

Whitewash Cubs, 3-0, 2-0; Indians Lose Two Games

Wild Phils Stretch Streak To Five; Melton Tops Cards Again

CUBS LOSE NINTH CONSECUTIVE GAME

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 21— The Chicago Cubs graciously seem intent upon trading places with the Philadelphia Phillies in the National League standings during the current pennant campaign, but the Phils may not be content even with that and apparently have aspirations for higher things in the baseball sphere.

As things stand today the Phillies are only a half game out of 3rd place. The Cubs are down there in the cellar where usually you can find the Phils. That's where the latter finished last season, while the Cubs were winding-up in sixth place.

In any case the Cubs are doing the best they can to keep in the cellar and prevent the Phils from going back to their old haunts. The Phils are doing a pretty good job themselves of riding high.

Add Fifth Straight

They won their fifth game in a row yesterday by making a clean sweep of the four-game series with the Cubs and left no doubt about the outcome. The Phils took them by shutouts, 3 to 0 and 2 to 0. That increased the Cubs' losing attack to nine games.

Charley Fuchs and Al Gerhauser fired a pair of four hitters at the Cubs in the twin bill. Fuchs beat big Bill Lee, who went all the way to the eighth inning of the opener before being removed for a pinch-hitter. Gerhauser went the route against Dick Barrett to score the nightcap victory.

In the National League's only other game the Brooklyn Dodgers concluded their four-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals by winning, 5 to 2, for an even break in the tussles. Rube Melton came back after two days of rest to beat the Cards for the second time in the series, his mound victim being none other than the redoubtable Mort Cooper.

The triumph moved the Dodgers to 1½ games ahead of the idle Boston Braves and to three games over the third place Cardinals, with the Phils another half game to the rear.

Indians Lose Two

In the only American League action the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians in both ends of a double header, 2 to 1 in 10 innings and 7 to 4, and the idle New York Yankees' pace-setting margin was increased to two games over the Tribe.

The tail-end Red Sox won the opener in the 10th when Johnny Peacock singled Johnny Lazor home from second after the latter had walked and reached second on a sacrifice. Oscar Judd went the route to victory in the opener and Mace Brown, one of four Boston hurlers used in the nightcap, was credited with the second win.

Novikoff-Cubs Kiss, Make Up

Holdout Joins Chicago In Boston; Salary Term About $8,000

(International News Service)

SOUTH GATE, Cal., May 21— The last of major league holdouts was herded back into the fold today as Lou Novikoff, baseball's mad Russian, prepared to fly to Boston where he will join the Chicago Cubs.

The fence-busting outfielder signed a peace pact and playing contract to put a finish to one of the most talked-about holdouts in recent baseball history.

Clarence Rowland, president of the Los Angeles Angels, acted as intermediary and dispatched Novikoff's salary terms directly to Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs. Wrigley, accepting the compromise terms, promptly ordered the National League problem-boy to report to the Cubs at Boston.

Novikoff was believed to have accepted an $8,000 salary.

Originally offered $6500 by Jimmy Gallagher, Cub business manager, Novikoff held out for $10,000.

He hit an even .300 last season for the Cubs and finished in a tie for fifth place among the National League batters.

NEW CASTLE OUT OF WPIAL MEET

New Castle High will not compete in the annual WPIAL track and field meet to be held Saturday at Pitt stadium, Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner announced today.

Lack of standout contestants and the travel bugaboo were advanced as chief reasons.

Where help is scarce goats may be used to keep the grass in shape. They're on the job in the famous Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

Henry Won't See Beau-Monty Fight

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Anxious to keep fit for Monday night's 10-round bout with Maxie Shapiro at Philadelphia Henry Armstrong will not attend tonight's fight between Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack at the New York Garden. He will meet the winner June 11.

"I'll have to be satisfied to wait until I catch the Bobcat or the Beau in the ring myself," declared the Californian, "so I'm staying in the gym right here preparing for Shapiro who I realize is no push-over."

One of Armstrong's sparring partners is Terry Gibson, a protege from Los Angeles who meets Steve Kukal of Scranton in a supporting scrap to Henry's bout with Shapiro at Convention Hall.

PHILS GET ORDER FOR SERIES DUCATS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—The Phillies' sudden rise in the baseball standings has brought them the faith of the fans as well as fame.

The club's management announced today that four persons have applied to the Phillies' office for 1943 world series tickets.

The team's one and only pennant was in 1915.

Cubs' Wrigley Plans To Quit Baseball Post

Judge John A. Sbarbaro Next President; Wilson-Gallagher Status Shaky

GRIMM MAY BE NAMED MANAGER

By DAVIS J. WALSH

(International News Service Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, May 21.—It was understood today by those close to the situation that Philip K. Wrigley, president and owner of the Chicago Cubs, plans to withdraw very shortly from active connection with baseball in order to devote himself exclusively to his multi-million dollar business empire.

Mr. Wrigley could not be reached at once for confirmation of this report, which also had it that he proposed to install his friend and former legal counsel, John A. Sbarbaro, as his successor in the presidency of the ball club.

Source Reliable

Efforts to contact Judge Sbarbaro likewise were unsuccessful. But so reliable is the source from which the report comes and so insistent is this source that the oficial news might break at any time that we have decided not to withhold publication.

Just what, if anything, such a change would mean in the status of General Manager James T. Gallagher and Field Manager Jimmy Wilson is open to conjecture. However, it was stated as being "very likely" that Judge Sbarbaro, if and when appointed, would want to bring Charley Grimm, former Cub manager, back from Milwaukee to handle the team on the field.

They have been much criticized for their conduct of the so-called Novikoff incident, by which baseball's lone holdout has been allowed to languish in Los Angeles while the club blundered along—probably establishing an all-high record for men left on bases. But whether this has any bearing on P. K. Wrigley's reputed plan to appoint Judge Sbarbaro as head of his baseball interests is purely a mahtter of surmise.

Favor Grimm

The judge has been generally known as a "Charley Grimm" man, both before and after Charley's resignation as Cub manager in 1938. As to that, Mr. Wrigley continued to keep Grimm in his employ one way and another, with the result that "Charles"—as he invariably calls the guy—is understood to draw the same salary, as Milwaukee manager, that he did with the Chicago club.

Moreover, it is claimed that, while Grimm may have been under fire in 1938, he stepped down largely to give Gabby Hartnett his merited chance at the job, which otherwise have gone to Tony Lazerri, the ex-Yankee.

Grimm himself had won two pennants in seven years, one of them in 1932, when he replaced Hornsby in mid-season. The Cubs under Grimm won again in 1935 but were knocked off by Detroit in the series, so that Charley's over-all record was both good and ordinary.

Sewell's Name Off Active Player Roll

ST. LOUIS, May 21—Manager Luke Sewell no longer is a major league player.

The St. Louis Browns' pilot has been released as a player. He was on the active player roster as a catcher. It was necessary to go through the formalities of getting waivers from the other clubs before Sewell's name could be placed on the retired list.

At the same time, the Browns announced that they have dropped Fred Sanford and Sid Peterson. The twirlers have been sent to Toledo of the American Association.

Union High Meet Is Underway Today

Frisco-Oakland Play 18 Innings

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21—In one of the longest games every played in the Pacific Coast League, San Francisco won a 5-4 18-inning victory over Oakland, Thursday.

The rivals played scoreless ball for 14 frames. Each team tallied three times in the third. The score was unchanged until the 18th.

'Heavies' And Flyweights On May 26 Card

Because of the pugilistic powress displayed in recent bouts by some of the amateurs indications point to a banner assembly when the Jefferson A. C. holds a benefit for the New Castle hospital nurses alumni in the Arena here May 26. Eight of the 16 glove warriors have won Golden Glove titles and out of the eight battles some exciting scraps are sure to materialize.

Jim Mirades, former Pittsburgh gridder, who hopes to successfully make his way around the fistic rialto is scheduled to battle Buddy Triplett, a rugged heavyweight of Youngstown. It will be one of the few heavyweight bouts which have been staged here and no doubt it will result in some ponderous swings with plenty of "heft" behind the punches.

One of the best fighters on the docket is Herky Kamesnky of Pittsburgh who will take on Chester Hoover of Youngstown at 112. Should the heavyweight fight be slow because of their mammoth size the fans can expect to see plenty of fast punching and stepping when the flyweights start. They are two of the fastest boys in the amateur boxing game today.

According to Jefferson A. C. attaches the call for reservations have been similar to the first benefit held for the New Castle hospital nurses alumni.

NEWELL KIMBALL BOUGHT BY PHILS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 21—Newell W. Kimball, big righthanded pitcher who did occasional relief joos for the Dodgers during the past three seasons, today became the property of the Phillies.

Kimball, 28, came to the Quakers via a straight cash transaction. He has been in organized baseball since 1934, and in three seasons with Brooklyn was credited with eight victories and two defeats.

COUNTRY RUN

A five-mile cross country run for the post championship is on the spring sports program at Fort Devens, Mass.

Sports Ramblings

Squibs about a lot of things:---

There's an excellent local reason why Shadyside Academy's track team is showing its heels to all opposition this season. One of the stars of the Pittsburgh troupe is Robert Stewart, Jr., the ex-Ne-Ca-Hi-football, basketball and cinderpath specializer. The Mahoningtowner consistently chips in with his share of points in the low hurdles, shot put and discus toss . . . Officials of the Moose baseball team today forwarded word that Lee avenue field (west side) will be the club's home grounds. Hitherfore the Moose gamboled on Elder field. Shenango Pottery, a new City league entry, will play host on Ryantown field . . . .

Eight 'New Castle Boys' at Great Lakes send a "how do you do" to the sports colony. They are: Carl Scungio, athletic director for his company; Dick Doyle, company clerk; Johnny Rosati, who is cutting a deep niche as a sprinter; "Chuck" Palmer, a boxer, Regis Doran, Armando Monaco, Jack Mathews and Louis Delphi . . . "Found time to see the Phillies and Washington in action and, so far as I'm concerned, these two clubs represent the most improved outfits in the majors," writes Cpl. Vince Audino from Philly. The south sider, however, picks the Yanks and Brooklyn as league champs . . . .

Fingering a record book, I observed that Polo Grounds' right field is a 257.9 feet target. Which got me to thinking that "Babe" Ruth would have caused National league twirlers to commit suicide if he would have had that staring him in the face. Instead of 714 homers beside his name, the Sultan would have passed the grand mark with ease . . . Paul Waner recently drew a pair of free tickets to first in the same inning. Sounds like some kind of a new record . . . .

Max Macon should believe in Santa if he already doesn't. The Dodger hurler won his first three games despite the fact that he wasn't around at the finish of any of the three tilts. The Bums got Max a total of 40 runs . . . It's Sergeant Joe DiMaggio now. That's what I call fast promotion . . . Johnny Vander Meer, who blew to the Giants Wednesday, has beaten the New Yorkers only once in the past two seasons! . . . While the "hyped" ball seems to have helped most of the clubs in the big show, the shift has silenced the Pittsburgh bats to a hush. If Xavier Rescigno isn't on speaking terms with his Bucco mates, you surely can't blame the pitcher. Two runs in 22 innings . . . .

QUICK PICKUPS:

By LAWTON CARVER

International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 21 — Quick pickups:

Announcement that Babe Dahlgren may be lost to the draft by the Philadelphia Phillies is an ironic twist to that baseball situation down in the city of Brotherly Love.

The one thing customers in that city haven't loved until this season were the Phillies. Then a new owner, Bill Cox, took over, installed a new manager, Bucky Harris, and started on new ideas, to give the citizens a hustling ball club. Out all this has come the biggest crowds the Phils have known in years, a club now holding down fourth place.

Loss Tough Blow

If they lose Dahlgren, they lose all they have gained. The well-travelled castoff has been a big help, and losing him would be about as tough a blow as the team conceivably could suffer.

A few months ago when some of us were saying that the Phillies would be one of the most interesting teams in the majors this season and a team capable of doing some things under the guidance of Harris, there was considerable snide snickering. The Phils, it seems, were destined simply to remain forever as the doormats for better clubs.

Contrary to that, Harris has instilled some spirit and fight into them and they might wind up in the first division. They will be better than they have been for several seasons and that's a positive cinch.

HAAG DEBUT NEAR

If nothing happens to upset the schedule, Gunder Haag will make his first American appearance in the National A.A.U. championships at Randall's Island, New York, June 19-20. After that he will run through a series of performances in the east and elsewhere.

The A.A.U. meantime is lining up a program that will give the swift Swede a chance to prove that he is as fast as his records seem to show. He has shattered more marks by wider margins than anybody of our time in his native Sweden and all we want to know over here is whether he can do it again.

FLEET FAVORED TO NAB WITHERS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 21—Count Fleet, Kentucky Derby winner, was an overwhelming favorite today to win the $15,000 Withers stakes at Belmont park Saturday.

Blue Swords, who earned $23,000 by chasing the Count home in derby, the Wood and the Preakness, will not run in the Withers against him. The Allen T. Simmons colt has not been able to work out satisfactorily.

The Count's only competition should come from Slide Rule, Suncap and Tip-Toe, the other two possible entries in the famous mile, are not conceded a chance of winning.

Beau Favored To Retain Title In 15-Round Go

Georgian To Enter Madison Square Garden Ring With 2-1 Edge

$75,000 GATE IS PREDICTED

By LAWTON CARVER

International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 21—Bouncing, whirling, wild-swinging Beau Jack resumes his pugilistic career at Madison Square Garden tonight and will clamber into the ring at 2 to 1 or better over Bob Montgomery, the veteran though not aged, trial horse from Philadelphia.

The prize, besides sizeable purses, is the New York commission's version of the lightweight championship, currently the property of the ever-willing little Georgia negro.

Despite the fact that the bout will be waged between two colored men, Beau Jack's crowd-pleasing antics, the long boxing holiday at the Garden and the sports boom will combine to pull something like $75,000 through the turnstile.

Jack's First Defense

He makes his first defense tonight. He ought to win—if he does not run out of a gas ration tickets between the 10th and 15th rounds. He has been a notoriously slow finisher in the past and over this long haul with a veteran as experienced and as cagy as the Philadelphian might be hard put to retain whatever lead he can get in the early rounds, if any.

Montgomery's record in point of knockouts and decisions is just about as good as Beau Jacks, with the added impressiveness that the former has fought over-the-weight matches five times against champions—three times with Angott and twice with Lew Jenkins, Angott's predecessor.

Neither Jack nor Montgomery ever has been knocked out and each has flattened 27 men—Montgomery getting his in 59 starts and the titleholder cooling his guys in 53 encounters.

Monty Experienced

If he were to beat Beau Jack it would be a great upset to most observers, but a few would be able to go around afterward nodding wisely and saying I told you so. For they did say—a few of them—that Montgomery has the experience and stamina to do it.

I like Beau Jack. If he can't beat the likes of Montgomery he doesn't even deserve his half-share in the title.

He is young and he starts out strong. If he can just keep from getting so weary of it all he will survive to attract the customers again with Armstrong or Angott—or even Joe Blow.

PRINTERS' FOE

Not until the war is over will Frank Kriscziokatis get a trial at first base by the Cubs. He's a soldier now.

Forty-six years ago the New York Giants, under Manager Bill Joyce, trained at Lakewood, N. J., where Mel Ott has his club this spring.

Japs Warn Russia Against Leasing Us Siberian Bases

Would Be Counter To Russo-Japanese Neutrality Pact; No Soviet Move Made

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 21.—An official Japanese spokesman, according to a Tokyo broadcast today, has given Russia another indirect warning against providing America with air bases in Siberia.

The Tokyo radio report, recorded by Reuter's, quoted the spokesman as declaring that any lease of Siberian air bases to the United States would "have an important bearing" on Russo-Japanese relations. He said that any such action would be counter to the spirit of the neutrality pact between the two countries.

Afterward the spokesman admitted that there was no official information on any Soviet move toward "accommodating Siberian bases for America," and "discredited" rumors that bases might be leased to the United States.

Spangler Declares Roosevelt Already Running In '44 Race

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Republican National Chairman Harrison E. Spangler today is convinced that President Roosevelt is "already running for a fourth term."

"I am not for any candidate for president," Spangler said at a news conference, "but I am against one—that politician from Dutchess county, N. Y.—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Spangler came to Philadelphia to confer with Pennsylvania G.O.P. leaders on raising funds to support the national committee's expenses. Asked if he thought Roosevelt will be a candidate, he replied:

"There's no question about it. He is already running and the inner bunch of the New Deal crowd is spending a great deal of time promoting his fourth term candidacy."

Spangler insisted upon a differentiation between Roosevelt as president and as a politician.

"As President he is deserving of respect, but he hasn't any immunity as a politician running for office."

He conceded that Roosevelt wouldn't be easy to beat.

"It will be a tremendous fight," he declared.

DAVIES DELIVERS LETTER TO STALIN

President Roosevelt's Special Envoy Reaches Moscow, Meets Premier

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, May 21.—A meeting between Premier Joseph Stalin and President Roosevelt's special envoy, Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to the Soviet Union, took place last night in the Kremlin, an official announcement said today.

Davies, who carried a special letter from President Roosevelt was received so promptly by the premier upon his arrival in Moscow that he had insufficient time to attend a reception planned in his honor at the American embassy.

It was understood that the conference was prolonged and "especially cordial".

Upon his arrival in the capital Davis suggested he may take back to President Roosevelt a letter from Stalin.

"I come as a messenger bearing a letter to Premier Stalin," he said. "The contents are not known to me. It may be that I shall take a letter back to the president."

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Perhaps you have been wondering about the farm labor problem. Has any one actually gone out and worked? Yes friends, there have been quite a few folks volunteered. Business Men, War Workers, School Teachers, High School Boys and Girls . . . and each group has worked one or more half days this spring. Last week a group of High School boys went out one afternoon after school and worked for several hours, they liked it so well they went back the next day which was a Saturday. Also that Saturday found a group of girls out husking corn . . . Mrs. L. C. Mantz had this group and from the report the farmer turned in, they really worked. In all cases the work was not donated, they were paid and each one says, paid well for we are inexperienced workers . . Why don't you join up with a group . . . or maybe you would rather go with just another chap . . each day it rains pushes the farm crops that much further back . . . and that much more help will be needed. Farm Work is War Work.

* * *

War means all sort of troubles . . . and then during a war things are discovered that otherwise would not be brought to light for years to come. Today many, many items are being developed from plastics . . . look around and you will see them and priced right for your pocket too. Plastic water pipes, fly screen, dishes, circus tents (you wouldn't want to buy one this season), costume jewelry and many, many more items that you use around the home and place of business. The men in service use plastics . . . especially the Air Corps . . . the nose or (green house) on bombing planes are made from plastic . . . yes, we really do live in a great age, but there shouldn't be any war to mar the picture . . . however, there is a War and each and every one of us must do our job . . . No matter how small the job, do it with all your might:

Starting right now . . . I will live my life to save a man.
All my working hours I will work for the safety of this man.
I need not say to anyone who the man is.
It may be a friend or father, husband, brother or son.
All that matters is, I shall see him before me as I work.
I shall put forth all my effort, as if the life of this man depended on me, alone.
As if I alone could put into his hands the weapons to save the world.
As if I alone made the ships, guns, tanks and airplanes he needs.
Before I sleep at night, I will look deep into my own conscience to see if any greedy or selfish act of mine has hampered him.
This man . . . who may be fighting in jungles or drowning in icy seas.
This man who is giving his time, his health, his very life for me.
This man is counting on me . . . alone.
To this end will I work.
I shall not let him down.

The above was composed by Mona Kene West, an American Mother whose son is with the armed forces.

STOCKS

MARKET TRADING IS SLOWER TODAY

Some Scattered Stocks Buck Downward Trend; Few Issues Drop Slightly

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 21.—The stock market reacted further today in an extension of yesterday's late selloff but losses generally were limited to fractions with a few issues dropping a point or more.

Many traders who had realized substantial profits on the rise to new three-year peaks through Tuesday and Wednesday, were cashing in for the week-end. Trading was at a slower pace than on the recent upswing.

A few scattered stocks bucked the downward trend. Union Pacific was outstanding on a runup of almost 2 points to a new peak above 94. American Car & Foundry, also at a new top, advanced about a point.

Chrysler and Union Carbide were among the handful of stocks to drop a point or more before meeting support. Lesser declines were suffered by principal steels, coppers, rubbers, utilities, aviations, oils and amusements.

Bonds held within narrow limits, with the general tone easier.
